Australia's Jimmy Rooney missed by inches with this shot at goal against Chile in the 1974 World Cup match in Berlin. The match ended in a scoreless draw.

ABANDONED: The need to abandon soccer matches in Australia has been rare as the climatic conditions are ideal for football.

In the international sphere, the England v Riverina at Wagga Wagga in August, 1925, was abandoned because of local flooding. During the 1958 tour by the English club, Blackpool and the match v. Tasmania in Hobart was abandoned due to heavy rain.

On Saturday June 5, 1900, all first and second grade matches were abandoned due to torrential rains. All seven seniors matches in the ninth round of the Sydney metropolitan competitions were abandoned due to heavy rains. Owing to a crowded programme the games were never played. Floods in the whole of the Hunter River Valley, NSW, caused the 1930 Northern Division sixth series to be abandoned.

These matches were played later in the season.

After 48 minutes in the 1934 State Cup replay between Kurri Kurri v Weston, the lines were washed out by heavy downpour. The scores were one all when play was stopped. The match was replayed three days later, with the final score two all. A further replay was essential.

ABERDARE: This northern NSW club was founded by a group of former Scottish miners in 1925 and gained senior status in 1926 when it joined the Newcastle premiership. It was an off shoot of the powerful Cessnock club. Aberdare was a pioneer in the formation of the first State Soccer League in 1928 and won the inaugural State Cup in 1928 after surviving a five match semi final against Kurri Kurri. The "Dares" winning team comprised: H McKissock, T Hill, A Henwood: T Shakespeare, J Evans, W Sterritt; N Brennan, J Mackay, B McLaren, A Thomson, J Drinkwater senr.

Aberdare also won the Stevenson Cup in 1930. During the recession in the coal industry in 1937, Aberdare lost its senior grading and returned to local amateur football. The club's colors are red and black with white shorts.

ABERDEEN (SCOTLAND) TOUR, 1974: Aberdeen, a well established 1st Division club played five of its S-E Asia tour in Australia.

ABONYI, Attila: Hungarian-born wing-forward who played a leading role in the teams which won Australia a place in the 1974 World Cup finals at Munich. Many call him "Ottie the Artist" but others like to refer to him as a player with quicksilver feet and a calculating brain. He migrated to Australia as a boy and played for Victoria under 16 and under 18 years old teams against NSW.

He joined Polonia as his first senior venture and in 1967 won a place in the national eleven against Scotland. From then on he went from success to success and he has made several tours overseas. At times he appears to stroll through the game with an easy nonchalance but like a bolt from the blue he moves into direct and dangerous action.

Abonyi has superb ball control, accuracy in passing, and has the ability to score goals from difficult positions.

ABORIGINES: They have played soccer impressively at times but have not participated in sufficient numbers to take the prominent part, they have won in other Australian sports such as boxing, cricket and horse racing.

The outstanding native born player is Harry Williams of St George, NSW, a gifted half back. He toured Europe with Australia in 1970 and was a member of the Socceroos who won through to the Munich World Cup finals in 1974. Williams was the first Aboriginal to play soccer for Australia.

In the early 1960s, Charles Perkins, one of the first aboriginal University graduates was an excellent half back with Pan-Hellenic and Bankstown in Sydney. He travelled overseas to gain playing experience. Perkins' football earnings paid his fees at Sydney University where he graduated as a Bachelor of Arts. He is now assistant secretary in the Department of Aboriginal Affairs in Canberra, and a noted worker in improving the status of the aborigine.

In 1908-10 on the NSW coalfields, Bondi Neil won fame as a goalie and cricketer with Pelaw Main, Kurri and Weston. Many others have excelled in the junior ranks especially in the Northern Territory, but the instinctively fast reflexes and speed of our native people has been largely unexploited in soccer.

ACKERLEY, Stan: A Lancashire born defender of rare acumen. He came from the hub of Cotton Country football. He always had a love of the round ball game, but opportunities in England did not fall his way, so he migrated to Victoria where in the early 1960s he joined Slavia. There, in club games, he showed a toughness in the tackle which brought greater confidence to his team-mates.

Ackerley soon built up a reputation of never admitting his side was beaten. His recovery was speedy and positionally correct. He represented both Victoria and NSW for in 1964 he joined Apia for a $4500 fee. When he moved into the international sphere, he developed into an elegant master strategist by often turning defensive play into attacking channels.

Ackerley figured in Australia's 6-1 defeat of North Korea at Phnom-Penh in 1965, and was prominent in our 1969 World Cup campaign. Now at the end of his playing days he is coaching Toongabbie in the Sydney suburban League.

ADAMSTOWN ROSEBUDS: A splendid, 85-year old northern NSW coalfields club rich in the traditions of soccer.

Founded: 1889.

Ground: Adamstown Park, Bryant Street, Adamstown.

Colors: Red & green shirts, red shorts, red & green hooped socks.

Coach: Joe Lanzoni.

Honors: North Federation Premiers, 1966-68-70 - State League Premiers, 1930-34-35 - State Cup, 1930 - Gardiner Cup, 1909-25 - Kerr Cup, 1925-26 - Sheahan Cup, 1940 - Robinson Cup, 1930-31-34 - Stevenson Cup, 1929 - Daniels Cup, 1946-65-69 - Ampol Cup North, 1972 - Nurse Cup, 1919.

Internationals from the club: Alec Cameron, Arch Harris, "Massa" Russell, Peter Doyle, Alan Johns, Arch Lambert, Lawson Bailey, Cyril Nichols, Gordon Muncaster.

The Rosebuds were formed by a group of British miners who came to the area in 1888. Two of Australia's 1974 internationals, Ray Baartz and Col Curran are products of the club. The club now operates a strong Social club, "Rosebud House" built on the site of the playing area. The most revered of all former players is Bob ("Brolgie") Egey, a goalie, whose exploits are legendary in this sector of the city.

ADELAIDE JUVENTUS: Crack South Australian club which won the First Division championship in four successive years, 1956 to 1959. In 1956, Juventus won the title without losing a single point, a record which may never be beaten. Its goal average that season was 94 for and 10 against, a wonderful achievement. The club was fortunate in having first-class administration.

Founded: 1946.

Ground: Olympic Sports Field, Kensington Park.

Colors: Black & white striped shirts, white shorts, white socks with two black hoops.

Honors:	Winners	First	Division	Champion

1955-56-59	61-62-67.

After winning the second division in 1945, Juventus entered top ranks in 1947. It has proved the outstanding club side in the State. Success has followed success. The winning of the "double" in 1953-57-58-59-63-70 created a meritorious record.

ALAGICH, Joe: Australian-born winger who in 1974 played his 16th successive season for the Sydney club, Yugal. Alagich has earned many admirers for his persistence in developing attacks for his team. He has appeared in 261 matches. In his League career, he has scored just over 100 goals, a really remarkable achievement for such a small man. Alagich's ability to move quickly into an attack allows him to alter the whole pattern of play to his team's advantage. He has another fondness for skirting the opposition defence to snap a shot at goal. Alagich has played both for NSW and Australia but his admirers are often puzzled why he is so often overlooked when speed is needed in our national elevens.

ALMOND, Cliff: A grand, versatile player from the Cessnock (NSW) club. Early in his long career, he had a season with North Sydney, but he returned to Cessnock to consolidate his claims for higher honors. Almond was so keen to improve that he spent his long service leave from industry overseas to get expert coaching. After trials with Aston Villa and Newcastle United, he preferred Scottish soccer and completed a full season as a professional with Stirling Albion where he excelled as a right winger. Back in Australia, he switched to defence and won State and national honors against South Africa, China, Austrian Rapid and South China. When he retired in he had made 439 senior appearances in Australia and 25 in Scotland.

AMATEUR FOOTBALL: Soccer without pay is conducted in all Australian States and in Papua New Guinea. Formation of the Australian Amateur Soccer Association in November, 1969, placed the amateur section of the code on a sound footing. Bodies affiliated to the parent amateur federation include amateur organisations from NSW, Victoria, Queensland, South Australia, West Australia, Tasmania, North NSW, and the Australian Capital Territory. The AASA is affiliated to the Australian Soccer Federation. Associated members are Australian Soccer Referees Association, The Australian Coaches' Association, and The Australian Churches Association. One of the main plans is to develop closer contact with Olympic Soccer. The association conducts the annual National Youth Championship.

AMPOL-SPONSORED COMPETITIONS: This large Australian oil company has been a prominent sponsor of Soccer since 1958, and has backed competitions in all States. Sir William Walkley, as chairman of Ampol, saw soccer as the sport that could do most to bring old and new Australians together and aid the newcomers' assimilation. The company started with a series of matches in Sydney in 1958 for an Ampol Cup, which was won by Canterbury-Marrickville. This was extended to Newcastle, Queensland and South Australia. Victoria had its first Ampol Cup matches in 1960 and the Victorian team JUST, beat all-comers to win the inaugural Ampol inter-State championship. Ampol helped bring the Fijian soccer team to Australia in 1961.

AMPOL CUP NATIONAL SERIES, IN 1960: Ampol Cup winners from four States clashed in Sydney during March, 1960 for the National Ampol title. Teams to qualify were Wallsend (NSW), JUST (Victoria), Hellenic (Queensland), and Juventus (South Australia). Sydney was left without a representative when Wallsend (Newcastle) caused a major upset when it knocked out the favorites Budapest. After the four contestants had played three games the 1st prize of $1200 was won by JUST of Melbourne.

Results of matches were:

- Juventus (SA) beat Wallsend (NSW) 2 to 0.
- JUST (Vic) beat Hellenic (Qld) 4 to 2.
- Hellenic (Qld) beat Wallsend (NSW) 3 to 1.
- JUST (Vic) beat Juventus (SA) 2 to 1.
- Hellenic (Qld) beat Juventus (SA) 5 to 2.
- Wallsend (NSW) drew JUST (Vic) 3-all.

AVIS, Jackie: For more than 60 years, Jackie Avis, of Weston has served soccer in many ways. He was born at Throckley in the north of England and came to Australia in 1911. For years he was an outstanding centre with Weston. He won a State medal with them in 1918 and captained NSW v China in 1923.

In all, he scored 201 goals in 277 appearances. In his prime, he was dubbed by fellow miners "Dead Shot", Jackie. On his retirement, he served Weston as secretary for 14 years, was treasurer for seven years and had 63 years in all as a committeeman. His son, Jack, was secretary for seven years and his father, George, was president of the "Geordies" for six years.

AZZURRI: A successful West Australian migrant club, founded in 1953.

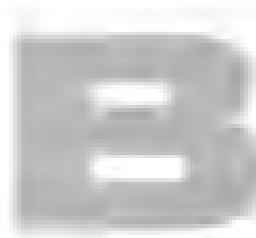

Ground: Dorrien Gardens, Lawler Street, Perth.

Colors: Sky blue shirts, sky blue shorts, sky blue socks.

Honors: 1st Division champions 1960-62-67-68-69, Ampol Cup 1962-68-70-71-73, D'Orsogna Cup 1960-65-69-70-71, Top Four Cup 1963-66-67-72.

Australia's Ray Baartz (No. 9) leaps high in a duel for the ball against South Korea's goalie in Sydney. Watching from just behind Baartz is Adrian ("Noddy") Alston (No. 10).

BAARTZ, Ray: A product of Newcastle N.S.W. Junior Soccer. Born at Merewether, he showed such outstanding skills that the Adamstown club sent him and Doug Johns to Manchester United on a sporting scholarship. Baartz did so well that he remained on the Old Trafford staff for two and a half years. He was offered a permanent place by manager Sir Matt Busby but returned to Adamstown to help the Rosebuds.

He was transferred to Hakoah (Sydney) for a fee of $5,600. In the Federation ranks, he was an immediate success. Although injury kept him out of the Socceroos for Munich, he has over 20 full internationals and many State awards. Baartz is a bright, intelligent forward with keen powers of distribution. In attack, he is industrious with a fastish drive in both feet. With his experience, he has gained speed, skill and subtlety.

BALGOWNIE: One of the oldest established clubs on the NSW south coast, Balgownie has been a powerful force in promoting soccer on the coast. The club's most famous player was the popular Australian captain Judy Masters, who scored 33 goals for the "Magpies" in 1928 – the season before he retired to take part in the club's administration.

Founded: 1890.

Colors: Black & white shirts, white shorts, black & white socks.

Ground: Balgownie Park, Para Street, Balgownie.

Honors: South Coast Premiers, 1892-95-96-1900; Nurse Cup, 1913-21 23; Metropolitan Premiers, 1926-28 State Association Premiers, 1928. Sydney Cup, 1957-58.

BALMAIN: This club was responsible for developing the code in the western sector of Sydney. In 1919, it changed its name to Balmain Fernleigh and had great success in the seasons, 1919-20. The club gradually faded into the junior ranks after World War II.

Founded: 1890.

Ground: Balmain Sports Ground (Birchgrove then Easton Park).
Colors: Black and gold vertical striped shirts, black shorts, black socks with gold tops.
Honors: Sydney Metropolitan Premiers 1895-96-99-1911-12-19 20; Gardiner Cup, 1895 96 97-1905-11-12-15-19-20.

BARDON LATROBE: The Latrobe club (Qld) was founded in 1916, but changed its name and location to Bardon Latrobe in 1969.

Founded: 1969.

Ground: Perry Park, Brisbane.

Colors: Scarlet shirts, scarlet shorts, scarlet socks.

Honors: League Champions 1929-30-31-32-64 66 67.

BARR, Johnny: Probably the last great player produced by the Kurri Kurri club before it bowed out of first class soccer. Cessnock saw in Barr a potential star and signed him as a half back. Barr is regarded by many Northern critics, especially Jack Mathews, as the most consistent club player ever. A physical fitness fanatic, Barr was always in superb condition and never flagged in even the toughest match. Barr was a tackling ace, who, when in possession, could pass the ball with amazing accuracy to his forwards. His covering methods were sound and his terrier like tactics when danger threatened won general applause. He played for Australia twice and won many State caps. Barr was also a first-class cricketer and appeared in many Country Week carnivals.

BASEL F. C. TOUR, 1963: Basel was the first overseas club to visit Australia when F.I.F.A. lifted its ban on the Commonwealth Association. The club played only two matches here. Results:

F. C. Basel	2	v	Prague (Sydney)	2 at Sydney.
F. C. Basel	2	v	Victoria	3 at Melbourne.

BAUMGARTNER, Leopold: One of the most colorful players ever to grace Australian Soccer. With great respect he was called "The Professor" and so he was. Born in war-stricken Vienna, he played juniors with the WFC 20 club. Later he transferred to Vienna Athletic but it was with the F. K. Austria club that he made his name. He toured Australia in 1957 and returned to settle permanently in Sydney, where he joined Prague in 1958.

Baumgartner realised that the Sydney public wanted entertainment, and he certainly gave it to them. Crowds flocked to see him in action. He played for NSW, alongside his friend, Kark Jaros.

Soon he had other Vienna stars in Sydney, namely Tamandi, Shagi and Schwarz. Baumgartner had creative genius and paraded his skills in businesslike manner. He showed power, pace and control of speed, allied with delicate ball control, immaculate distribution and football know-how. He had the lot.

One critic said, "there was an almost mystical aura that accompanied his many appearances on Sydney grounds". Leo retired in 1965 and has since done good, useful work as a coach. His influence on Australian Soccer will be felt for many years.

BAYSWATER UNITED: A relatively new West Australian club that has quickly made an impact.

Ground: Bayswater Oval, Bayswater.

Colors: Red and green shirts, red shorts, green socks.

Honors: Runners-up 1st Division 1971-72. 2nd Division Premiers 1970. 3rd Division 1969, Ampol Cup, 1972. Top Four Cup 1971.

BAYUTTI, Giacomo ("Jim"). One of the most powerful administrators in N.S.W. since the Federation was formed in 1957. He came to Sydney from Northern Italy in 1949. He has demonstrated strong leadership as President of the N.S.W.S.F. and as a vice-president. He was prime mover in Australia's participation in the World Cup series and he acted as co-manager when Australia went to Cambodia in 1965.

Bayutti is again leader of the Apia club and president of the large Apia Social Club with modern premises in the Sydney suburb of Leichhardt. The Italian Government honored him with the rare award, Knight Commander of the Italian Republic - a worthy tribute to a grand sportsman.

BEANEY, William (Bill): Probably the outstanding soccer secretary of all time. He was foundation secretary of the first State-wide league in NSW in 1928. He acted in an honorary capacity, and donated back into the game all his gratuities.

Beaney showed remarkable organising skills and opened the door for the introduction of partial professionalism into the game. He was State President in 1934 and a national selector for eight years. From 1921 to 1927 he was secretary of Weston. Since passing the 80 milestone he has visited Wembley for two Cup finals. This year of 1974 marks his 50th year as a member of the "Geordies" club.

BELMONT-SWANSEA. At time of its foundation this northern NSW club was called Swansea-Belmont. In 1953 it moved to Blacksmith and was renamed after that seaside resort. In 1962 it reverted to Belmont-Swansea.

Founded: 1935, reformed 1953.

Ground: Blacksmith Sports Ground, Blacksmith Nr Belmont.

Colors: Orange with green trimmings, white shorts, green socks with orange tops.

Goal-scoring record: R. Burgoyne 40 goals, 1967.

BIGNALL, Bob: The NSW south coast has produced many fine players during its 70 years' history, but it would be very difficult to find a more loyal clubman than Bobby Bignall. In his career, which spanned 15 years as a senior, he made 424 appearances in club soccer. In 1956, came his greatest achievement when he captained Australia at the Melbourne Olympics. Bignall made six appearances in full internationals and played in 14 tests — a great record. Although strong in stature, he was not a big fellow, but his speed in recovery made him a very difficult player to subdue. It was a great pity that Bignall did not continue playing after the Federation was formed.

BIRKALLA ROVERS: Since World War II, this South Australian club has had difficulty in retaining First Division status. Its achievement in winning three consecutive titles in 1950-51-52 was outstanding, and in taking out the "double" in 1950-51 it was rewarded for consistent attacking football.

Founded: 1933.

Ground: Camden Oval, Anzac Highway, Birkalla.

Colors: Gold shirts, black shorts, gold socks.

Honors: 1st Division Champions 1944 45 47-50-51-52. Cup winners 1938-44-50-51.

Colors: Red and black vertical striped shirts, white shorts, black socks with red tops.

Honors: League Champions 1926 41-53. Hilton Shield 1953 54. Brough Cup 1949.

BLUE, Archie: A speedy Scot, born in Glasgow, the Mecca of Tartan Football. He showed outstanding skill as a schoolboy, juvenile and junior, and signed as a professional for the famous Edinburgh club, Hearts of Midlothian. After two seasons at Tynecastle Park, he was lured south to Exeter City where he enjoyed the faster tempo of English football. An offer from the JUST club brought him to Melbourne where he soon won representative honors. He toured overseas with the 1965 World Cup squad and gave yeoman service on tour. He then transferred to Apia in Sydney for a big fee and soon became a favourite at Lambert Park with his speedy attacking type of soccer. He made 155 appearances for the "Maroons" before he joined the recently promoted second division Rosebery as playing coach.

BOAC TOURNAMENT (1965 in New Zealand) Three Australian entries were included in this Easter tournament along with New Caledonia. Four New Zealand combinations, Auckland, Canterbury, Otago and Wellington completed the eight.

Just as he secured a place in the top eleven, Buljevic accepted an invitation to join the JUST club in Melbourne. At that time, JUST had a talent scout in Belgrade. Big fees cannot lure Branko to Sydney. Since 1968, he has been in the forefront of candidates for international honors, and he has played both for Australia and Victoria.

He shows great ability to open play and reveals an ability to move in a clever manner into a scoring position.

Apennaris

Chile's Elias Figueroa (No. 5) soars for a header as Australia's Doug Utjesenovic tries hard to thwart him. Australian captain Peter Wilson is on the ground in the foreground during this thrilling incident from the 1974 Berlin World Cup match.

CAMERON, Alec ("Sandy"): Born in the North of England, Cameron came to Australia as a mere toddler to learn all his football trickery with the Adamstown (NSW) Club. At the age of 15, he played senior soccer, and at 17 in 1925 he played against the first English professional team to tour Australia. He showed impeccable ball control, combined with accurate passing and shooting with either foot. The visiting manager, John Lewis said, "There's a lad who would be a star in any country". Cameron went on to win every honor in the game and captained Australia on the 1936 tour of New Zealand. The New Zealand press called him "Cameron the Great". When he retired, he retained interest in the code and became a state director for many years.

CAMPBELL, Ern: An attacker in our 1974 World Cup squad of great potential. He is a product of Sydney juniors. During the visit of the Chelsea team to Sydney in 1965 their chairman of directors, Mr. J. H. Mears was so impressed with Campbell's ability in a junior curtain raiser that Campbell was invited to Chelsea's ground at Stamford Bridge, London, to further his football education. He accepted the offer and spent a valuable season with the Pensioners. Returning to Sydney he won promotion to Apia's senior grade. CIVIC HONOR: Private J. Bilbie, a soccer player from West Wallsend, was awarded the Certificate of Merit by His Majesty King George V for saving a person from drowning in the River Thames in 1916. Bilbie was on leave from France after receiving injuries in battle. Later he returned to France and was killed in action in 1917.

COALSTARS: As Bundamba Rangers this club won the Queensland title League in 1922 38-55, and also were winners of the Brough and Nissen Cups and the Tristram Shield.

Founded: 1964.

Ground: Bundamba Soccer Ground, Bundamba.

Colors: Sky blue shirts, blue shorts, red socks.

Honors: Ampol Cup 1965.

CONNELL, James: Born in England where he was actively associated with soccer, especially in the amateur sector. Known by enthusiasts as the "wise voice from South Australia". His judgment often sways decisions in the national conferences. Chairman of the South Australian Soccer Federation and a great fighter for the code. In 1957 he was co-manager of the Australian team which toured South Vietnam. He has been an active member of the World Cup sub-committee.

CONQUEST, Norman: A goalkeeper who won fame for his consistent efforts in club and international matches, he was discovered with Kearsley Juniors by nearby Aberdare. The depression sent Conquest to Sydney where he played for Wollongong, Goodyear and Leichhardt-Annandale. In all he had 319 senior appearances. He toured South Africa in 1950 and was a star of the tour.

He made 15 state appearances, nine full internationals, and three Test games. Conquest was a master in nullifying high balls and had great length in his clearances.

COOLAHAN, Bill: Known by fans in all States as "Bill the Lion Hearted" because of his refusal, even under adverse conditions, to admit defeat. Coolahan was a product of football in the trade recession era, when hundreds struggled to make the top when money was short. His first pair of football boots was the gift of his elder brother, Frank, who played for Australia and NSW. A product of West Wallsend Bluebells, Bill Coolahan made over 250 senior appearances with West Wallsend, Adamstown and Speers Point. He reached the peak of his career in 1937 when he skippered Australia v English Amateurs to win the Ashes in a three Test series. Bill was the toughest back or half back to wear the national shirt. His tackling was swift, direct and well timed and seldom did he fail.

CORINTHIANS: Queensland club founded in 1920 and reformed in 1935.

Ground: Langlands Park, Coorparoo.

Colors: White shirt, black shorts, black and white socks.

Honors: League champions, 1920-40-49-52, Price Cup 1954, Tedman Cup 1954.

CORRY, Ron: A goalie of high class, who came out of the Canterbury juniors: one of Sydney's best football nurseries. Corry began his senior career with Canterbury but later transferred to South Sydney Croatia. Always keen to attain peak physical fitness, Corry won his way into the NSW team and then into the national squad against Japan in Australia in 1968. He shared the goal-keeping job with Romanowicz on the extended tour of Asia in 1969. Despite a lack of height, Corry has won fame for his catlike agility. During this tour, he set up a commendable record as a saver of penalties.

Cool under pressure, he has a keen eye and an alert brain and is very efficient in crowded goalmouth tussles which generally follow corners. A real crowd-pleaser for the manner in which he jumps to clutch high balls with tigerish energy.

COUTTS, Clarry ("Rocka"): Just after World War 1, Coutts had a distinguished career in the Newcastle area when that part of NSW dominated soccer. He was a tall, efficient pivot, as tough as the brittle Seaham coal he hewed in the West Wallsend area. It was with the famous Bluebells that he won fame for his direct methods in curbing goal scoring opponents. Unrelenting on the field, he was as gentle and understanding as Mr Chips off it, for he could inculcate correct methods into the up and coming star that joined his team. Coutts made 505 appearances as a senior and captained NSW and Australia. Old-timers who still frequent Johnson Park will tell you about the exploits of this local star who played in seven cup finals, mostly on the winning side.

CRACOVIA: A West Australia club that has recently made a big impression.

Ground: Perry Lakes Stadium, Floreat Park.

Colors: Red and white shirts, white shorts, red and white socks.

Honors: 1st Division champions, 1966, 2nd Division 1965, Ampol Cup 1967, D'Orsogna Cup, 1967.

CROATIA: A South Australian club founded in 1953.

Ground: Hanson Reserve, Woodsville Gardens.

Colors: Red shirts, white shorts, blue socks.

Honors: Won 2nd Division championship 1959, won Cup Finals in 1960-62, Ampol Cup, 1961.

CROWHURST, Roy: Many feel that there has never been a better equipped right winger in Australia than Crowhurst, who was a product of Canterbury juniors. His consistency on the right flank gave him well-earned prestige. Crowhurst burst into the senior ranks just when there was a big upsurge of public interest with the formation of the first State League in 1928. He won all his honors and fame with Metters. Coached by the late Bill Douglas, he was a handful for opposing defenders. He played in 11 internationals and seven Tests. He toured New Zealand in 1932 and New Caledonia in 1933. Crowhurst was at his very best against the English Amateurs in 1937, when he created many scoring chances.

CUMBERLAND UNITED: A South Australian club founded in 1941.

Ground: Bailey Reserve, Edwardstown.

Colors: Gold and chocolate shirts, gold shorts, chocolate and gold socks.

Honors: Reaton Cup Finalists in 1956.

Goal-scoring record, Malcom Dunbar, 40 goals in 1943 which is still the best ever in First Division.

CUP WINNERS: See Gardiner Cup, Association Cup (NSW) and State League Cup (NSW).

CURRAN, Col: Over the years the North has given Australia many fine defenders and Colin Curran — a proven member of the Socceroos — is one of the best. He was a star in school and junior circles at West Wallsend where his grandfather, Jimmy Curran, was a star in the pioneering days of Australian soccer. A keen student of the game Col went to Manchester United to improve his skills and this was evident when he rejoined Adamstown. He transferred to Marconi for a fee of $3000 but went back north. He won a place in the New Caledonia tour and his form there attracted attention. Curran later joined West Suburbs for a fee of $7000. "Never say die", is his motto. He is a great cover defender with a speedy recovery. He shows a penchant to go forward when the occasion arises. At one stage, he was rejected by the national selectors but his grand form in 1970-71-72 won back his place in the national squad. He was superb in Australia's defeat of Uruguay in 1974 at Sydney.

Western Suburbs' goal-keeper makes a spectacular high leaping save from just in front of the bar, concentrating hard to ensure he takes firm hold of the ball.

East German's goalie Jurgen Crey gathers with an acrobatic leap to stop the ball reaching the head of Australia's Adrian Alston in the Hamburg match won 2-0 by East Germany in June, 1974.

DANIELS CUP: Symbol of Knock Out championship in the Newcastle-Maitland area of NSW.

DATE, Reg: A big powerful striker who regularly attracted lavish praise, a great footballer, who was by all standards the greatest Australian-born soccer player — and our greatest goal-scorer. After performing mercurial deeds in the junior and schoolboy ranks, Date was promoted at 17 for a Robinson Cup final — a test for any player as it was a wild local derby. As soon as he settled down, he thrilled the big crowd, for he showed precise passing into open spaces, deft ball manipulation, artistic attack, and perfect positional play. Within two winter campaigns Date had blossomed into the greatest home-grown "drawcard" ever. His goal scoring deeds were legendary, and between 1937 and 1953 he kicked 664 goals in competition games including nine in one game, seven goals twice and six goals three times! As years rolled on, Date perfected what was called by Crystal Palace habitants "the flick pass". At full speed, he could flick the ball with either foot with amazing accuracy to team-mates 25 yards away. Such a shock move tore opposing defenders apart and goals came easily. In a career that included every honor this man, who terrorised goal-keepers with his bullet-like shooting suffered an unbelievable blow when he was omitted from the team which toured South Africa in 1950. Why? The simple answer is — pettiness by some officials. Not only did that omission hurt Date, it offended all right thinking fans in all parts of Australia.

DRINKWATER, Jack (The Third): Drinkwater was a personality player, who caused fans to either cheer or jeer him. But that did not worry the Cessnock idol. Well over 14 st, with shoulders fit for a heavyweight wrestler, he knew his strength and used it fairly — to the chagrin of his opponents. There was no finery in his play, no dallying or chicanery but he played it as a game of brisk direction. As seasons advanced, he improved his ball control, positional play, and added variety to his distribution. Drinkwater played for both Australia and NSW but his heart was in the club games. During his sojourn with Cessnock, that club won many honors. In soccer history, he is Jack Drinkwater the third, simply because there were two other of the same name playing soccer, but not with the success that he enjoyed.

DRUERY, Roy F: Born at Wallsend. After short playing career, he became treasurer of the Wallsend Club. In 1927 he was elected Hon Secretary-treasurer of the Australian Soccer Association, a position he held till 1963 when the Federation took over, after a somewhat short and bitter fight. Druery was also treasurer of the NSW Soccer Association for nine years. He was managing-secretary of the Western Suburbs Hospital at Waratah and received the MBE in 1958 for his services to sport and charity. Druery died in the late 1960s after a crippling heart attack at the Olympics in 1956.

DRUMMOND, Cec: Between the two World Wars, Drummond was an outstanding full-back in the Sydney area. A product of the West Sydney juniors he played with Drummoyne, Grace Brothers and Leichhardt-Annandale when the Lambert Park club was the real power in Sydney soccer. Drummond, a smart and fast defender, despite his lack of height and weight, never flinched in his defensive work. He played in 13 full internationals and in five Test matches and skippered his country on nine occasions. He toured New Zealand in 1948 and two years later went to South Africa where he played in the four Tests staged.

DUMA, Bodgan: The 1974 addition to Sydney Soccer is Bodgan Duma, a star from the Newcastle area. In 1973 with the champions Weston he scored over 40 goals. As a junior, he revealed versatility and at high school he showed great promise in Rugby League, Aussie Rules and Soccer. He continued with soccer and has served Maitland for seven seasons. In 1971, he went home to Blackpool for coaching and while at Bloomfield Park he sharpened all his attacking skills. He will play with SS Croatia and is regarded as a future Socceroo.

ENGLISH TEAM TOUR (1937): In 1931 the Council of the English Football Association made a substantial monetary loan to the Australian FA to assist it in developing the game in Queensland and NSW. Under the leadership of S.A. Storey and secretary F.R. Druery, the way was paved for the next visit of an English side in 1937. The visiting side was all amateur. During this 10 game tour, two of them played by floodlight, the Australian side gained two notable victories, the first at Sydney on July 10, 1937, when 37,295 saw them win 5-4, the second at Newcastle when they won 4-3. The Australian team's success triggered a bountiful tour in which $32,000 was taken in gatemoney.

ETHNIC NAMES: With the advent of Federation control in all States, ethnic names were used by national groups in their efforts to advance the game. Their use caused much controversy. To dilute criticism, generally from old Australians, many clubs voluntarily added local names e.g. Budapest in Sydney became St. George-Budapest. This was the trend in NSW, Northern NSW, Tasmania, South Australia and the ACT. In Victoria and West Australia there were no restrictions. At the end of the 1972 season, the Queensland Federation banned the use of such names. The following changes were made: St. George South for Hellenic, Brisbane City for Azzurri, North Brisbane for Polonia, Southside Eagles for Germany, Grovely for Budapest, Trident for Dnipo. Similarity of names has caused much confusion among overseas investors in England's summer pools on the results of Australian matches.

EUROPEAN CUP: In the last decade, excellent TV coverage has made Australian viewers in all States acquainted with this popular competition. This trophy was created by the French sporting journalist and former player, M. Gabriel Hanot in the 1955 56 season. Matches preceding the final are decided on the home and away system with goal aggregate basis.

EVANS, Jack ("Digger"): One of the greatest Australian-born defenders of all time. He burst into the limelight with the now defunct team Aberdare. From the first match he was a crowd pleaser and was duly nicknamed after his father ("Digger"). Tall, powerfully knit, red haired, with fiery eyebrows he played the game in a robust manner. He often stood like a colossus and master of all he surveyed. The recession of the early thirties drove him to Sydney where in turn he played with Goodyear, Metters and Leichhardt Annandale. He won many State caps and played for Australia on 26 occasions.

EVERTON TOUR (1964): On an eight-match tour Everton drew 51,566 for its opening match in Sydney, the biggest crowd to watch an Australian team at home.

The real strength of Australian soccer lies in the rapid development achieved among kids like these. Top right, A final at Sydney Sports Ground; Right, It's all action in a suburban park.

FEDERATION, FORMATION OF: Australian soccer is now controlled in all states by Federations which in turn are affiliated to national Federations — but only after years of strife.

During the Melbourne Olympics year of 1956, there was much discontent among club officials, players and supporters in Sydney. There was a lack of leadership, the reigning New South Wales Soccer Association failed badly to develop the potential among the thousands of migrants, who came here from all parts of Europe, and strong migrant clubs in Sydney were continually relegated to minor grades. There was open hostility with the manner in which administrators selected and prepared representative teams.

Before the 1957 season opened in Sydney, the storm erupted. A group of dissatisfied officials and players met at the residence of the Hakoah official Walter Sternberg. A new rebel administration was set up and a new competition commenced. It was called the Federation. This touched off months of bitter argument as long-term administrators saw their world collapse. But the change had to come. New promotion ideas were adopted and the Federation immediately won the support of the paying public.

The NSW Federation tried to secure affiliation with the Australian Commonwealth Soccer Association but this was refused. Despite this setback, the Federation form of control won the approval of the clubs, players, supporters and many old officials. And it did so fairly quickly. The influence of the Federation spread to other States where branches were founded. The skirmishing left its scars but time has healed most of them.

W. Fletcher, who settled in Sydney two years earlier. On August 3, 1880, Fletcher and fellow soccer lover J. A. Todd called a meeting in Aarons Hotel to promote the English game of Association football in the colony. They formed a club known as the Wanderers and Fletcher became secretary.

FIRST MATCH IN AUSTRALIA: The Wanderers played their first match on August 14, 1880, against a team from The King's School. Wanderers won 5 0. FRASER, Jim: Sydney born goalie Fraser, after a short term with Polonia went to St. George, where under skilled coaching he improved his game in all branches. He has attacking attributes as well as defensive. In the Asian section of the World Cup, he showed commendable skill in launching attacks from his defensive position. However, at times, a better understanding with his near defenders when back passing is used would lift his game. Fraser's covering is first-class as he never assumes that low balls are going wide. His father was a goalie in ice hockey.

FREW, Andrew: One of the most popular administrators ever in NSW was Andy Frew of Newcastle. A Scot he migrated here before Word War I and played senior soccer in the north with Newcastle City and Hamilton. A tall and powerful player, Frew made an early retirement due to war service. Later he became a leading administrator and was president for the NSW Soccer Association. An active business identity in Newcastle, he also shone at golf and bowls.

Below, Plucky Col Curran, is finally carried off on a stretcher in the last of our three World Cup matches assisted by Dr. Brian Corrigan the team medico.

GARDINER CUP: Probably the most cherished of all knock-out soccer trophies in the Southern Hemisphere played from 1885 to 1928. It followed closely the rules of the English FA Cup. It was presented to NSW Soccer officials by an English businessman, W. S. Gardiner, a manager of a Sussex Street softgoods warehouse and it remained a popular competition for over 46 seasons. This famous series ended in 1928 due to a breakaway movement which brought a form of quasi-professionalism into the then amateur code.

GEORGE, Arthur Sir: Serving his fourth year in 1974 as President of the Australian Soccer Federation. A Sydney lawyer, he is regarded as a brilliant organiser. Through his personal efforts, a series of sponsorships has lifted Australian Soccer into world prominence. "The right man in the right place" is how delegates describe his wise leadership. For years he was associated with the Pan-Hellenic club, and he is a former vice-president of the NSWSF. He was knighted by Her Majesty for his services to the community and to business.

GEORGE CROSS: A Victorian club whose first XI played 46 consecutive games without a defeat in the early 1950's. This club caters for many junior teams, which have performed with outstanding success.

Founded: 1947.

Ground: Schintler Reserve, West Melbourne.

Colors: Red shirts, white sleeves, white shorts, red socks, white tops.

Honors: Australia Cup, 1964; State League Cup, 1973; Dockerty Cup, 1959-62; Ampol Cup, 1958-61-65; Second Division champions, 1954-57; Third Division champions, 1949-53; Noordeene Cup, 1971-72-73.

Coaches: John Sanches (1970-71), Ken Patterson (1970-73).

Long Service Players: Eddie Sacco, Vince Muscat, Don Hodgson, Arch Campbell, T. Vella, L. Vella.

Goal scoring record: Nick McCullum, 27 in 1972; Joe Cunningham, 23 in 1973.

GIACOMMETTI, Johnny: A nuggety attacker who joined Apia-Leichhardt from third Division Italian club, Lecco, in 1962. Giacometti wore the Apia colors during the club's glorious years 1964 to 1967. A born entertainer, Johnny soon fitted into Apia's tradition. So great were his drawing powers that he became a hero among Lambert Park regulars. He was a rare crowd-pleaser, a personality player who weaved his way into the crowd's hearts with his many mannerisms, by his bright and intelligent play. He gave the fans drama and comedy, and they applauded him for his skill. At full flight, he was a very difficult man to dispossess, and he was a master at taking free kicks when the ball was stationary. He played for Australia v. Scotland and for NSW many times.

He could crowd vivid action into small areas, ideal for TV coverage. When the genial Johnny left the scene, there were many sad hearts at Apia.

GIBB, A. A.: A pioneer of soccer in the Southern Hemisphere. With Bill Stephens and W. Fletcher of Sydney he was responsible for the first interstate games between Victoria and NSW. He was often called "the father of Australian soccer". Born in the Midlands in England, A. A. Gibbs won fame as an amateur centre-forward with Calthorpe United. In 1884, he arrived in Melbourne as an insurance manager and immediately founded the Victoria Football Association. Gibb captained Victoria v. NSW in the first interstate match and won praise for his cultured play and brilliant leadership.

Transferred to New Zealand in 1890, Gibb became co-founder of the game in the "Shaky Isles". In 1901, he visited London in an attempt to get a British team to tour the Antipodes. In 1906, Gibb retired to London where until his death he proved a valuable ally for Australian soccer. He was the Australian representative on the FA council between 1910 and 1932. Later, it was discovered that Gibb had paid Australia's yearly contributions to FA from 1886 to 1923, when the Australian Soccer Association was founded.

GILES, Ron: Like his father, Wilfred, Giles is a lightweight who employs skill and speed to beat bigger opponents. A product of the Dudley Juniors he has served Cardiff, Wallsend, Adamstown and South Sydney-Croatia in a crowded career.

Ron was the Northern player who threatened High Court action to secure his release from Adamstown. When this was granted, he joined nearby New Lambton South as playing coach. He has won honors for Northern NSW, NSW, and Australia. He suffered serious injury against Manchester United. His recovery was slow but sound. He has made 333 appearances in senior ranks.

INDIVIDUAL GOAL SCORING RECORDS: The greatest goal scorer in Australian soccer was the Australian-born Reg Date, of Wallsend. QUILL'S GREAT SCORING: Another outstanding goal scorer was Alf "Art" Quill. Although born in Sydney he played for many seasons in the north. In his career as centre forward, 1927 to 1949, Quill scored 868 goals in competition games. In charity matches, benefits and patriotic games Quill scored 1002 goals in all. Some of Quill's best efforts were:

BEST RECORD ON DEBUT: 7 goals by Lyal Rees for Kurri v. Canterbury at Kurri, 1929.

HARDING, Dave: One of the most improved Australian team players is Dave Harding of Pan Hellenic, Sydney. Born in Lancashire, he had continued success both in the juvenile and junior circles in the Liverpool area. An Australian talent scout recommended that he migrate to Sydney and he came out in 1968. Harding is very industrious in mid-field and has often showed outstanding skill in moving forward to score.

HARRIS, George: A cool headed defender, a local product from Sydney's St. George district who should win honors in the future. He excelled at soccer at the James Cook High and at Wagga Teacher's Training College. However, it was while on tour of Japan with St. George that he showed his true skill. His display against Israel also proved that at right back he is a trojan in defence with sound covering methods. Harris is an indispensable part of the Saints' rearguard. He is cool under pressure and his kicking has improved in timing and direction. He had made 128 1st team appearances at the start of 1974.

HEANEY, Alec ("Sonja"): A versatile player gifted in all the arts of soccer. He was a product of northern NSW where he played all his 358 senior games. Because of his graceful gait and his pattern-weaving dribbles, he was given the name of "Sonja". His senior career lasted from 1935 to 1960. His clubs in rotation were, West Wallsend, Newcastle City, Swansea-Belmont, Lake Macquarie, Cessnock and Cardiff. Heaney played for Australia in four Tests and was skipper against the South Africans in 1947 three times. In these big matches, he showed his versatility by mastering four different positions.

HEARTS OF MIDLOTHIAN TOUR (1959): Hearts were the first Scottish First Division club to visit Australia. Under manager Tommy Walker they proved one of the most popular combinations ever to tour here. They played 15 matches without loss and ran up several big scores.

Herezeg toured Asia under coach Joe Vlastis and improved greatly in all skills.

HUGHES, JACK ("Bully"): The depression of the early 1930s, sent hundreds of northern players to Sydney to cash in on their football ability. In this group were three brothers Jack, Ben and Ron Hughes, of West Wallsend. Jack was the outstanding player of the trio. Regular employment was freely provided by the Metters Club, and with Hughes in the fore, the club went on to a series of triumphs. Hughes was king of the dribble with a body swerve that could deceive the best back. He made goals as well as scored them. In the First Test v English Amateurs in 1937 he rocked a crowd of over 40,000 at Sydney Cricket Ground by scoring 10 seconds after the kick off. Unselfish to a degree, Jack was a skilful distributor of the ball. He played in 10 internationals and in 10 Tests, scoring 16 goals for Australia.

Right, South Melbourne Hellas linkman Jimmy Pyrgolios, shows the concentration that won him Victoria's most coveted individual soccer award, the Bill Fleming medal.

Ray Baartz, rated by many as the most versatile of Australian soccer stars, soars high to head in one of his three goals against New Caledonia in the 1969 Wentworth Park match in Sydney.

INDIAN TOUR OF AUSTRALIA (1938): In a party of 18 tourists, only six played in boots. The Indians finished a 16-match tour with honors even.

Sydney goalie Jim Fraser, who unfortunately had to withdraw from Australia's 1974 World Cup team for Germany because of business commitments at home.

John McDonald, a dour Scot who starred for Auburn club in Sydney in 1973, and in 1974 for St. George. He is a strong midfielder who can turn defence into attack.

Clever Yugoslav-born attacker Billy Vojtek, who has won representative honors with Australia, Victoria and NSW. He missed World Cup selection in 1974.

Newcastle-born Ray Baartz, whose absence through injury from our World Cup squad cost Australia its best striker. Baartz is our most capped player.

Australian soccer team stalwart Ray Richards who in the 1974 match against Chile in Berlin became the first Australian to be sent off in a World Cup match.

J

JOHNS, Allan: Of the hundreds of soccer players who were educated at NSW's Broadmeadow Central Technical School, Allan Johns was outstanding. Son of a former player, Harold Johns, he won every honor in soccer. He played in eight internationals and seven Test matches while he wore the State shirt 18 times. Johns toured New Zealand in 1948 and two years later went to South Africa with the Australian team. In that tour, he scored six goals as a winger, a great effort. He was slim in build but had excellent ball control, a great burst of speed, and a very effective swerve.

JUVENTUS: In the early fifties, this Victorian club showed outstanding ability and won promotion in 1951 to First Division. Since that time steady flow of honors have gone to Juventus.

Founded: 1948.

Ground: Olympic Park, Swan Street, Melbourne.

KEILOR-AUSTRIA: This Victorian club originated as Austria Soccer Club in 1957, then changed its name to Elwood-Austria, and in 1972 changed it to Keilor-Austria. The club is awaiting the completion of a new ground at Keilor where it is anticipated that great progress will be made with both the senior and junior sections of the club.

Colors: Tangerine shirt, royal blue shorts, blue socks.

Honors: Runners-up Second Division, 1971; Winners Reserves Second Division 1971.

LAKE MACQUARIE: A 62-year-old northern NSW club with a splendid background. The "lakesiders" control on long lease an excellent home ground, Macquarie Park, on the shores of the famous Lake Macquarie. Founded: 1912 as Boolaroo F. C., re-formed in 1932 as Speers Point and again in 1938 as Lake Macquarie.

Ground: Macquarie Fields, Speers Point.

Colors: White shirts, white shorts, white socks.

Honors: State Premiership 1946; North 2nd Division 1945-58; Daniels Cup 1954; Newcastle Cup 1945; Ellis Cup 1962; Plummer Cup 1962-64; Ampol Cup 1961-62.

LAMB, Alan: After a long and successful career as an administrator with the Weston Soccer Club, Alan Lamb was chosen as president of the Northern New South Wales Soccer Federation with headquarters at Newcastle. The game in this area goes back to 1885, from which year the playing strength there could rival any other centre. Under Lamb's guidance, Weston has won the last three "doubles" — premiers and champions in 1971-72 73. Closely associated with Lamb in this work in an important region is Federation Secretary, Harry Hetherington, former Wallsend and Mayfield defender. H.H. has been registrar since 1963.

LAMBERT, Bill: Old-timers on the NSW coalfields, where the flame of soccer has burned for 100 years, love to tell about one of their past heroes — an Englishman who arrived unheralded in Weston to work in the local mines. He proved a natural footballer, strong in body and limb. In every field movement, he had an adroitness which foretold efficiency and skill. After a few games, he was chosen to captain the NSW team in Brisbane. In his reports team manager and national secretary, Ern Lukeman said, "Not only have we found a most skilful full-back, we have located an outstanding captain who should serve us for a long time". Lambert led Weston to win the famous Gardiner Cup in 1918, the only coalfields club to achieve that honor. But fate planned otherwise, for Lambert was killed by a fall of coal in the Hebburn Mine. Hundreds of miners stood bare-headed as his casket was lowered with the ball with which he had won the famous cup in 1913.

LAURIE, Bob: By far the most artistic player to come out of Queensland. As a lad he won fame in the Ipswich Schools competition. He followed his brothers into the senior ranks with the famous Bundamba Bowls Club. A polished right half, he proved a fine leader on and off the field. Laurie had a short spell with Leichhardt in Sydney and with Portsmouth in England. He captained Australia on the South African tour in 1950, and three times against China. His record includes 21 State caps, eight full internationals and 10 Tests. He passed the 500 games mark with club appearances. A schoolmaster by profession, he is now an active administrator in the Ipswich area.

LENNARD, Percy: A self-made international forward who played all his senior games with his mother club, Cessnock. With two good feet and strong physical condition, Lennard played long periods without a break. A hard-worker he scored hundreds of goals. He was also dangerous following corner kicks. Lennard has one honor that will always remain — he scored Australia's first goal in an international v. New Zealand played in Brisbane in 1923.

A knowledgeable captain and a great sportsman, Lennard's name is a by-word on the Maitland (NSW) coalfields.

LE FEVRE, Brian: Chosen in May, 1969, to succeed McAndrew as secretary of the Australia Soccer Federation. He was born in Cheshire, England where he played in the Cheshire Amateur League with success. After completing secondary education, he secured diplomas in business management. Le Fevre migrated to Australia and was assistant secretary-manager of the Royal NSW Bowlers Club in Sydney, with a membership of 145,000. He has always been a keen advocate of public relations, with the result that there is now greater harmony and understanding among the States. He knows well his targets for future development. (1) support for juniors, (2) better preparation for national teams, (3) and better refereeing. In every way he has proved an asset to soccer and is always well received overseas.

LIONS: A fairly new Queensland club which had a big success in the winning of the State title in 1973.

Founded: 1957.

Ground: Lions Stadium, Pine Road, Richlands.

Colors: Orange shirts, white shorts, blue socks.

Honors: Premiers 1973; President Cup 1973; Qantas Cup, 1973.

LION USC: A South Australian club formed by a group of Ukrainian migrants, which has quickly made a big impression.

Founded: 1951.

Ground: The Stadium, Manton Street, Hindmarsh.

Colors: Blue shirt, blue shorts, blue socks.

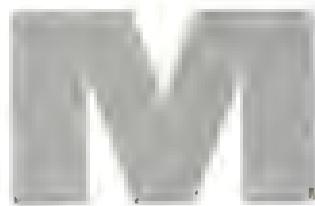

Honors: Won First Division title 1965; won State Cup 1956; won Second Division 1954; won Ampol Cup 1965.

LLOYD, Ray: A product of Lancashire junior soccer who migrated straight to Newcastle to help the Austral Club win its first major title. He is a solid midfielder, who can read a match with consummate skill. Well built, Lloyd is a master of the tackle, and when in possession has the ability to make forward passes in the right channels. He has represented Northern NSW on many occasions and travelled overseas with the national team. In 1973, he took over the job as playing coach of Weston to lead them to their third major premiership award.

LORD, Ron: A popular, reliable goal-keeper, whose career covered the period in which Federation control superseded the decadent Association regime. Lord made 178 appearances with Drummoyne and Auburn before he switched to Prague, and when he retired in 1966 he had played 399 games. Ron Lord was in the Australian squad at the Melbourne Olympics in 1956 but also gained caps against South Africa (1955), England (1951), Austrian Rapids (1955) and South China (1955). For many years Lord was an indispensable part of the NSW team. Always cool and unperturbed, he had great strength and was highly efficient in all the 'keeping arts, making many saves which bordered on the miraculous.

Peter Wilson, left, struggles to deprive a George Cross player of the ball in a 1972 clash at Salford.

McCANN, Peter: President of the NSW Soccer Federation since 1971. A managing director for a paper manufacturing company, he has wisely introduced up-to-date methods into the State administration. He is a convert to the round ball code, who came originally from Melbourne. He first became interested in soccer in the North Sydney area where he was associated with the juniors. For two years, he was president of the NSW Amateur Soccer Federation. After serving on the NSWSF as a committeeman, he was elevated to the chair. He is a great believer in the policy of encouraging local talent.

McCOLL, Tommy: As a teenager, McColl was spotted in the junior ranks close to the famous Stamford Bridge Ground, London. The scout took him to Chelsea where he served a rich apprenticeship. Frustrated by slow promotion in the professional field, Tommy migrated to Adelaide in 1966 but later moved for bigger reward to Melbourne. In both States his play attracted attention. He soon won national and State selection. In the 1968-69 seasons, he wore the national shirts nine times. He is a very intelligent player, with skilful ball control, and often has proved an elusive flanker. He uses a variation in pace to deceive many opponents. McColl have lots of courage and the happy knack of scoring goals when they were needed. He has proved a grim 90 minutes player, never satisfied to rest on his laurels.

McDONALD, John: One of the most important transfers of the closed 1974 season was that of John McDonald from Auburn to Apia, NSW. This move followed the switch by coach Tom Anderson from Mona Park to Lambert Park. Anderson, a former Hibernian star, watched McDonald closely at Auburn and had little doubt that here was the player that could put Apia in the top money again. McDonald has had professional experience with both Scottish League clubs, Montrose and Raith Rovers. Essentially a team-man, he has great powers of anticipation and the ability to swing a game. He gives and takes low passes like a craftsman, and is a member of our World Cup squad.

McINROY, Johnny: When goal-scoring feats are being discussed in Australia, the name of McInroy always crops up. Johnny set a wonderful record of scoring over 250 goals in league and Cup matches. At the age of 19 he burst into the limelight and became the State's top scorer in 1959-61-62-63-64-65. In 1960, Johnny went to Melbourne to improve his techniques but was welcomed back by his East Fremantle Tricolors friends in 1961. He took another break to tour Europe in 1967 but regained all his craft on his return by again topping the goals in 1969. His best season ever was 43 goals in 1963. McInroy had great skill, with accurate powers of distribution. His powerful shot from either foot, plus his timing in the air made him a match-winner. He scored five State caps against South Australia and Northern NSW. His best haul was five goals in the final v Fremantle City in 1962.

McKAY, Derek: Few footballers that have played on Australian grass have had the honor to play on the famous Hampden Park, Glasgow, in a Scottish Cup final — and more than that to score two braces and win a famous Scottish Cup medal. That was the rich experience of Derek McKay, who joined Sutherland in 1973. He was born in Aberdeen and at age of 16 signed for Dundee where he was a regular. Then he transferred to Aberdeen to win a cup medal. He tried English soccer with Barrow and then went on to Sydney, where he wore the colors of Sui-Fong club. From there he came to Sydney and soon settled in.

McKINNEY, Bob (R.J.): For over 50 years Bob McKinney was one of the best-known soccer officials in Sydney, respected for his friendliness and his helping hand for any sportsman. For his efforts in soccer, swimming, basketball, cricket, and sailing in the inner city, the State government appointed Bob as a trustee for Wentworth Park in 1954. He started soccer as a junior but at age of 18 became the youngest secretary of a First Division club. Over the space of 10 years he held the presidency of the Southern Soccer League, and the Referees Association. He was also a director on the NSW Soccer Association. Bob was the main reason soccer secured a lease of Wentworth Park for first division games when the Sydney Football Club was born.

MACKAY, Jimmy: Popular midfielder who scored the golden goal in the South Korea play off in Hong Kong which took the Soccer World Cup finals in Munich. That 35 metre drive was world-famous. It even won a slot in the British TV series "Match of the Day" and "Star Soccer". He was born in Scotland, where he ex-junior ranks, and was given a job by the famous Aidrieonians Club. When he decided to try his football luck in Melbourne he quickly established himself as a player of class. After gaining State and international honors for his adopted country, he was transferred to Hakoah (Sydney) for a fee of $7,000. It proved a very wise investment. In big games, he showed a calm and class, and he is now an experienced international.

McMEECHAN, Hammy: A son of Caledonia cast in a true Scottish mould is Hammy McMeechan who in his younger days crossed the Tweed to gain experience with Carlisle United and Exeter City. With such a wealth of experience behind him, he was soon the talk of Melbourne when he migrated to Australia. He was given the right winger berth for Slavia but in 1967 went to Croatia for fee of $2000. He won State and national honors and then went to Sydney to try his skill with Western Suburbs. However, his keenness lay in Melbourne so he returned south to gain more honors. McMeechan moves in a deceiving manner, and always is a danger man near goals. He is widely praised and popular in Victoria, where he has shown rare consistency. On tours abroad, McMeechan has given many calm, calculated performances for Australia.

McNABB, Jimmy: A strange career unfolded itself for Jimmy McNabb, doyen of Australian-born goalkeepers. Early with Weston, he won interstate selection as a back, but a serious injury to his right ankle changed everything for the agile miner. Desperate to stay in the game, he turned to goalkeeping and within two seasons he was right on top. McNabb was reared in a tough school. His Uncle Bill was a boxer who taught Les Darcy; his father, Jack, a road cyclist on rough country roads, and his sister, Esme, a leading fast bowler and slogger at vigoro. He was tailor-made for the job of 'keeper. He had hands like Rodney March; eyes like Greg Chappell, and the movement of a leopard. He trained until his reflexes were superb. On the field, he let everyone know that he was king of the penalty box. He could kick the ball over 70 yds, punch it 50 yds; throw it 40 yds – that was his strength. He won international, State honors and every worthwhile trophy in the game.

MAHER, Alan: This Sydney-born goalkeeper made his name in second division with the Granville Club. His form with the 'Magpies' lifted him to senior status, with the result he was transferred to Sutherland for a fee of $5,000. The change to the top ranks was just what Maher needed. With the Sutherlanders, Maher showed commendable command

Top, A youthful shot of Johnny Watkiss, now one of Australia's most experienced players; Below, Bob Bignal, who disappeared from club soccer after 424 senior team appearances when the Federation was formed.

Top, Gordon "Bunny" Nunn, from St. Helena, Ipswich, who set an Australian goal-scoring record for representative matches with a bag of 18 goals; below, Bruce Morrow, who was still playing for Wallsend in 1974 after 20 seasons.

Right, Leo Baumgartner, who brought a brand of showmanship and mastery of soccer skills to our soccer scene. That plus shrewd tactical skill,

A 1-time Australian soccer great "Judy" Masters. Brassbands and soccer were his passions in a working life that saw him cutting coal for 40 years.

Jack ("Digger") Evans, one of the greatest Australian defenders who represented 26 times in national colors and many times for NSW.

of the goalkeeping arts. Wise coaching allowed him to develop length and direction with his kicking. Under pressure, he is courageous and his safe hands are a great asset, and he is learning methods to "kill" high dangerous balls. Critics predict that he will be a star of the near future, when the cheers and tensions of the crowd die down. One expects to see Maher appear in the squad when Australia is formed for the World Cup of 1978.

MAITLAND: This Northern NSW club will operate in second division in 1974 but management has plans to move their playing field to St Peters Hill, East Maitland, where the prospects for advancement are very bright.

Founded: 1961.

Ground: Showground, Maitland.

Colors: Black shirt with white trimmings, black shorts, black socks, white tops.

Honors: Second Division Champions, 1969-70. Second Division Premiers, 1962-69-70.

MANUEL, Gary: A brilliant return to form in the 1974 season has seen striker Gary Manuel back into the international lime light. Born in Uruguay, Gary has been a prolific scorer for Pan-Hellenic (Sydney). In his first Uruguay match, he clinched a place in the Socceroos team. Manuel is a progressive, tireless worker who can quickly turn half-chances into productive channels. A fast attacker, Manuel, despite a crop of injuries, has a bright future.

MARCONI-FAIRFIELD: Over the past five seasons, this NSW club has made a rapid advance. From its players have come the internationals: Ray Richards, Peter Wilson, John Roach and Ern Campbell.

Founded: 1965.

Ground: Marconi Oval, Bossley Park.

Colors: Blue shirts, white shorts, blue and white socks.

Honors: Federation Champions 1972-73. Federation Second Division Premiers 1969.

MARNOCK, Alan: A dour Scottish-born defender. Marnock made his early in the junior and juvenile ranks of Midlothian, where many clubs operate. In this haven for talent scouts, his ability was noticed by at least five clubs. But, he migrated to Sydney and on the advice of a friend, he joined Hakoah Easts. From these he went from success to success. His aggression in defence soon made him the sought after in NSW since World War Two. Built on powerful lines with very strong limbs, Marnock soon took over the representative berth for NSW and Australia. A dominating figure in the air, he was seldom ever beaten for possession in goalmouth tussles. When he became established in the national squad, his inability to secure leave from his employment, cost him his Australian team to Peter Wilson. But Marnock's splendid service to the game has continued with Hakoah, with which club he has won many honors.

MARMARAS, Theo, MBE: Foundation member of the Victorian and Australian Federation and a former secretary and president of SM Hellas. He has held executive positions for many years. Marmaras was a leading negotiator in the readmission of Australia to the FIFA, soccer's international control body. He was made a life member of the national board in 1967, and was given the MBE for his community effort and in sport.

MARSTON, Joe: A household word in Australian soccer. Marston began his long career with Leichhardt in 1943 at the age of 17 and gained his first State cap at 21. In 1951, he joined the famous Preston North End team in England and spent four happy years at the Deepdale ground. In all he made 145 First Division appearances in the league and 11 in cup ties. He was on the beaten side at Wembley in 1954 when West Bromwich Albion beat Preston by 3 to 2. Marston also played for the combined English League v Scotland at Hampden Park in the same season and played a "blinder". He returned to put something back into the local soccer, and he won 35 international caps, captaining Australia on 24 occasions — a record. Since his retirement he has coached Apia, Wests and Auburn.

MASTERS, Judy: In hundreds of coal mining centres, there are two main forms of entertainment — brass bands music and soccer. One of Australia's best known soccer players, Judy Masters excelled at both. For 14 years, he was bandmaster of the popular Balgownie Brass Band and for 30 years he was so mixed up with soccer that he was known far and wide as "The Little Master". He was 5ft 8in, 12½ st, all muscle and bone for he hewed Illawarra coal for 40 years. He was a born leader, never shirked a tackle if a goal was in question and was never once spoken to by a referee in over 400 games. He captained Australia, the NSW South Coast and Balgownie and led an AIF team which was formed in France when peace came in 1918. He entered the senior ranks when only 15½, played for Balgownie 1901 11, Newtown 1912-13, Granville 14-15. With the AIF he saw service in Gallipoli, Egypt, France and Belgium. He returned in 1919, and began his international career, playing for Australia on 13 occasions and scoring 12 goals. Long before he died he was a legend on the South Coast.

MAUNDERS, Bill ("Podge"): A football genius whose appearances between 1921 to 1928 created a renaissance in the ranks of northern NSW soccer. This fervour later spread to other parts of the state. Maunders was a star from the beginning but his brightness was intensified by experience. Maunders came just as Harold Horder flashed across the Rugby League firmament. He was a natural at centre forward with the qualities for greatness; outstanding speed, creativeness, approach work, great power and direction in his shooting, cool under pressure and, last but not least, the ability to rally his colleagues. "Podge" came from footballing stock, for his dad, "Doughy" was a pioneer from 1896 to 1914. His older brother, Henry was an international. He came out of a local junior side, the "Woodpeckers", but at 18 he was king of the seniors. In 10 seasons, he bagged over 500 goals. In his prime, he won many professional foot races. He captained NSW and Australia many times. He later became country manager of Tooths Brewery.

MAYFIELD UNITED: A Northern NSW club that has moved from Second to First Division several times. Mayfield showed greater a strength in 1973. Its sole international was Sammy North, and its goal-scorer was Pat Docherty, with 37 goals in 1944.

Founded: 1930 (Lysaghts-Orb), re-formed in 1951.

Ground: Mayfield Park, Crebert St, Mayfield.

Colors: Green with white facings shirt, white shorts, green socks and white top.

MERDEKA CUP: Owing to the long distance from the eastern capitals, West Australia sought improved standards by entering teams in the famous Merdeka Cup. Four times it has sent State combinations to the East to try its skill against Asian opponents. Here the WA administration deserves full marks for its progressive attitude. Its venture in 1968 proved highly successful but was disappointing in 1969 and 1970. Is future participation wise? The West itself must answer that question. West Australian soccer is calling out for expansion. The Eastern States should give more support to its soccer friends in the West. Details of the four Merdeka Cup campaigns.

MILISAVLJEVIC, Jim: During the elimination tests to get to the Milisavljevic of Melbourne has acted as understudy to ... F ... odd occasions, Jim has periods of substitution, and on a ... 000 ... has given a polished display. Australian born of Yugoslav descent, he has all the qualifications to go for in the international scene. A safe pair of hands, gets length and direction into his clearance, and at all times vigilant in goal mouth struggles. Only 23, he plays for the strong JUST club in Melbourne.

MINISTER FOR RECREATION: Since the 1972 Federal election, the Government has created a new portfolio in the Ministry of Sport and Recreation. The inaugural Minister, Frank Stewart, attended by attending the World Cup elimination test between Australia and New Zealand at the Sydney Sports Ground on eighteenth August 1973. An estimated 31,000 gave him a great reception. The Minister said he would help — mainly the amateur side of all sports.

MINMI RANGERS: A Northern NSW club. When Minmi first played in the championship in 1892, Sydney critics said "Their combination is the best we have seen in Sydney". Due to a decline in the coal industry, the club lost senior status in 1911 and concentrated in local amateur events. Minmi was the first club formed in Sydney. In its first five seasons its team was composed of Scottish miners.
Founded: 1883.

Ground: Minmi Football Reserve.

Colors: White shirt, white shorts, black socks.

Honors: State Gardiner Cup 1892, Northern Premiership 1886-87-88-90-92-93-98.

MOOROOLBARK UNITED: This Victorian club has moved from fourth to first division in four seasons. It won the Second Division in 1973 from Sunshine City by 2 points. The promotion was fully warranted.

Founded: 1963.

Ground: Esther Park, Esther Crescent, Mooroolbark.

Colors: Red and white vertical striped shirts, red shorts, red socks.

Honors: Champions Second Division 1973, Champions Third Division 1970, Champions Fourth Division 1969.

MORROW, Bruce: In its long history Wallsend (NSW) has produced many famous stars, and to the moderns, Bruce Morrow is one of the club's best discoveries. He is one of three brothers, Dave, Johnny and Bruce, but he has outstayed the others. He has made 486 senior appearances and is still playing in 1974 in his 20th season. Morrow is a very fast winger, with excellent ball control, and a devastating shot in either foot. For years, he has been a bundle of energy — a 90-minute player. At the peak of his career, few could angle a shot like him, while his corners were the acme of accuracy. He won international caps against F.K. Austria, 1957; China, 1957; Ferencvaros, 1957; Blackpool, 1958; Hearts, 1959 and under Federation he appeared against several visiting teams. He toured New Zealand in 1954 and gained caps in the Melbourne Olympic. His club career has been with Wallsend, Apia, Auburn and Newcastle Austral, where he was playing coach for several seasons.

MT. GRAVATT: A growing Queensland club.

Founded: 1965.

Ground: Dittmer Park, Kumpp Road, Mt. Gravatt.

Colors: Green and gold shirts, white shorts, green socks with gold tops.

Honors: Won Second Division Premiership, 1972.

MORLEY WINDMILLS: A rapidly improving West Australian club.

Founded: 1959.

Ground: Bayswater Oval, Bayswater.

Colors: Orange shirts, orange shorts, orange socks.

Honors: First Division champions 1961-73, Runners up 1960, Ampol Cup 1969, Marlboro Shield 1973, Top Four Cup 1962.

The determination with which the Australian players went into tackles upset the ball control of the Uruguayan national side in both Sydney and Melbourne in 1974. Here is a typical example of the Uruguayan on the left losing the ball to a robust tackle.

NATIONAL COACH: In 1973, the ASF, with financial support from the Rothman's Sporting Foundation Trust, appointed its first national coach. After months of inquiry, the honor fell to former English professional, Eric Worthington, who holds the highest coaching certificates available in Britain. Worthington took over his duties in November, 1973. He has already visited all States and made contact with the seniors and juniors schools to prepare a master plan to meet the nation's needs.

NATIONAL COLORS: Australia's colors, to be seen in World Cup finals at Munich are:

Shirt: Gold with green trim.

Pocket: National Crest.

Shorts: Green.

Socks: White with green and gold hoops.

NEWCASTLE AUSTRAL: The first migrant team to play competitive soccer in Australia was the Northern NSW club Greta Austral. It won the Northern Cup in 1951. The winning team was: A. Salfranko, Z. Gawin, A. Moscher, G. Sodinow, H. Polivich, V. Antak, B. Zsumilas, P. Janowski, V. Tancev, O. Jursik, J. Horinek. Many of the players went to work in Newcastle and formed the Newcastle Austral. This club now owns its own ground and plans are ready to open a modern social club.
Founded: 1952.

Ground: Austral Park, Birmingham Gardens, Wallsend.

Colors: Violet shirts with white trimmings, white shorts, violet socks with white tops.

Honors: Won Northern Championship 1969, Won Northern Premiership in 1967. Ampol Cup North 1966-68.

NEW SOUTH WALES: Soccer began in Sydney in 1880 when an English schoolmaster, W. J. Fletcher, formed the first club, Wanderers, which played the first match v The King's School at Parramatta. With the help of Bill Stevens the game soon produced new clubs in Arcadians, Caledonians, Ambrose, Canterbury, Parkgrove, Pyrmont Rangers, and Granville. To the North, around Newcastle, Minmi Rangers, Hamilton Athletic, Greta Bluebells, Carrington Blackwatch, Burwood United, Wallsend Rovers, West Wallsend Bluebells and Adamstown Rosebuds were soon fielding teams. On the South Coast, new teams sprang up at Bulli, Balgownie, Corrimonal, Thirroul, Helensburgh, Woonona.

The introduction of a State-wide knock out trophy caused great interest in all regions. The first State wide council was called the NSW British Football Association and was founded in 1898. There was a breakaway in control in 1928 when the State-wide league was started.

Later in 1944, there was a further breakaway and a new zone took over. A further split occurred in 1957 with the formation of the Federation system.

The Newcastle zone was made a "separate State" with responsibility to develop the far north where the code had been neglected. Today, NSW is regarded as the major soccer State with thousands of juniors and schoolboys playing the game.

NEW SOUTH WALES STATE CUP SERIES: Conducted from 1927 to 1944. It was largely replaced by the State League Cup in 1943, and was in turn replaced by the Federation Cup after 1957.

NEW SOUTH WALES' TOUR OF NEW ZEALAND (1904): This was the first tour overseas by an Australian soccer team. The New Zealand Football Association invited an Australian team to tour. At that time, there was no national system of control. So NSW offered to fulfill the invitation and this offer was accepted by the New Zealand authorities.

A party of 15 players plus a visitor left Sydney on the SS Mararoa on the 22nd June, 1904. Thirteen of the players came from Sydney clubs, one from Newcastle, and one from the South Coast. The party comprised; Fred Robinson (Captain-manager), Tom Spencer, Bob Byers, Will Thorpe, Bert Moore, Syd Condon, Perce Timms, Con Harrison, Frank Waddell, Andy McMahon, Perce Medcalf, Will Carey, Syd Hilder, Andy Rae (South Coast) and Jack Wishart (Newcastle). Ned Maher was the official visitor.

Founded: 1957.

Ground: Prentice Park, Lutwyche.

Colors: White shirts, red shorts, white socks.

Honors: Yet to win a Cup or Premiership.

NORTHERN SUBURBS CALEDONIAN (SOUTH TASMANIA)

founded as Hobart Caledonia but changed its name in 1905.
Rattray from this club played for Australia in the Melbourne
Games in 1956.

Founded: 1951.

Ground: Margate

Colors: Navy blue shirts, white shorts, navy blue socks.

Honors: State & Southern Premiers, Association Cup, Fa...
Ampol Cup.

Goal-scoring record: W. Worsey, 68 in 1958.

NUMBERING OF PLAYERS: Australia led the rest of the world in 1912 in adopting numbered players. Following the trend in Melbourne to number Australian players, several Sydney senior clubs adopted numbering of their players in 1912. Leichhardt and Naval Clubs were the pioneers. The other clubs did not number. In 1937, numbering of all players from 1 to 11 was adopted by order of all State associations.

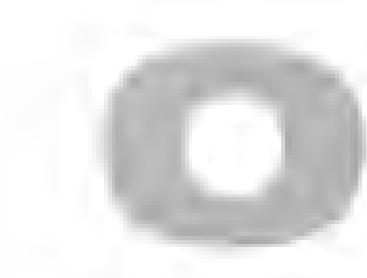

NUNN, Gordon ("Bunny"): St Helens Club in the Ipswich area of Queensland has developed a string of interstate soccer players. Most people will assert that Bunny Nunn was the best of them all. Early in his career, Nunn was a hard bustling go-a-head type of centre-forward who scored the hard way. When he won promotion to the Queensland team in 1937, Nunn proved a very quick learner and improved his technique. He soon became a strong, confident, skilful positional player with excellent passing ability and a real champion at netting goals. Nunn played 100 full internationals and in 16 Test matches. He toured South Africa in 1950 and was a star of the tour. His bag of 18 goals in one Test match was a record for an Australian international.

East Germany's goalie Jurgen Croy jumps to punch the ball away from Australia during their World Cup match at Hamburg won by the East Germans after Australia had kept the ball for minutes.

OCEANIA FOOTBALL CONFEDERATION: The Oceania Football Federation was founded with its headquarters in New Zealand. Its members are Fiji, New Zealand and Papua-New Guinea. Its main aim is to develop the game in the South Pacific regions.

OLDEST PLAYER IN SENIOR RANKS: Frank Millier-Smith played senior football until after his 52nd birthday. He was born in London, where he played amateur soccer with success before he came to Australia soon after World War I. He was a tall fitness crank, with excellent ball control, and he had the speed to overcome defences. He became an established left winger, and played for Australia, NSW, and in many inter-district Tests. Most of his club football was with St George when Prince Edward Park was their headquarters.

OLLERTON, Peter: An eleventh hour choice for Munich was the 6ft 1in Apia striker, Peter Ollerton. Born in Lancashire in England, he had an outstanding junior career and seemed destined for an English League career. However, he migrated to Melbourne, where his form soon won him interstate honours. Late in 1973 he was transferred to Apia and immediately proved a success. Ollerton is a big, powerful striker with fine ball control both on the ground and in the air. His goal versus the Uruguay team revealed a calm, collected forward capable of producing vital results.

OLYMPIC GAMES: Australia has competed in only one Olympic soccer competition, in 1956 at Melbourne, where she did not reach the quarter-finals. As a result of the breakaway from the Australian Soccer Association, Australia's amateur bodies lost their affiliation with State and Australian Olympic authorities. Soccer has now reaffiliated with the Australian Olympic Federation and technically there is no reason Juventus striker Bryan Thomson failed at point-blank range by Croatia goal-keeper Mato Juhasz during a Melbourne club game. With Scottish-born Thomson in its lineup, Juventus won the Victorian State championship, the Dockerty Cup, and the State League Cup.

Left, Fabian Juhasz, who achieved the rating of top defender in Victorian soccer through rare consistency.

Slobodan Zoraja, who topped Victoria's goal-scorers in 1971 and formed a formidable partnership with 1974 World Cup star Branko Buljevic.

Above; Victorian club Croatia received great service from goalie Mike Kovacek — but this was one shot he could not save.

Left, Exciting 1974 World Cup star Branko Buljovic takes on an opponent in a Melbourne club match. He leapt to world prominence with his ball dribbling skills in the World Cup.

OLYMPIC KINGSWAY: A 14-year-old West Australian club.

Founded: 1960.

Ground: Kingsway Reserve, Wanneroo.

Colors: White shirt, white shorts, white socks.

Honors: Runners-up Ampol Cup 1971.

O'NEILL, Kev: A product of Northern NSW where he played with Cessnock and short spells with Kurri Kurri, West Wallsend and Lake Macquarie. He was a self-made player who adopted safe methods. In defence he could close up play when threatened. Before he retired, O'Neill made 512 first grade appearances covering nearly 20 years of senior football. He learnt the code, which he learnt at Cessnock Primary School. He was one of the few Northern NSW star to try his luck in Sydney when Federation was still in control.

He played for two seasons with Prague. O'Neill toured South Africa in 1950 and proved the "iron man" of that tour. He played in 10 full internationals and in 10 Tests, and captained Australia in their tour against Hearts of Midlothian. He rejected an offer to play in Scotland.

OOSTEN, Johnny Van: Oosten is regarded by Perth critics as one of the most dangerous centre-forwards seen in the West. His record with the Perth Azzurri club has been impressive for several years. Considered a breakaway type of attacker with a deadly shot in either foot, he is always dangerous in the air. He was one of the big successes in the West Australian team that toured Asia in 1968. His two goals in the international game against Indonesia showed the quality of his spirit. It was a great honor for his country when he was awarded the inaugural Merkeda Medal for top goal-scorer in 1968. In the 1972 season, he also won a West Australian Newspaper award for the Best and Fairest player. His best effort for the Dorrien Park club was his four goals in the final v. Baywater United in 1972. His club won the title in 1967-68-69-71, with Oosten their main goal-scorer.

OXLEY UNITED: Queensland League champions in 1957 and 1958.

Queensland's Ampol Cup, 1959.

Founded: 1926.

Ground: Dunlop Park, Oxley Road, Corinda.

Colors: White and red vertical stripes, white shorts, white socks.

Right, Manfred Schaefer, German-born defender whose presence in our 1974 World Cup team brought world-wide attention. He proved a dour defender in all three games.

Johnny Warren loses possession to a strong, diving tackle against South Korea. Warren was one of the most popular players ever to appear for Australia. His fellow players unanimously elected him captain for the 1974 World Cup, to culminate a brave comeback after losing the national team following injury.

P

PAAP, Theo: To win the Carbonell Cup, WA's Best and Fairest award four times reflected Theo Paap's outlook. His philosophy was to play hard but at all times to play as a sportsman. After a successful career in Dutch schoolboy and amateur ranks, Paap migrated to Australia and soon made his mark with the Dutch supported club, Morley-Windmills. His name PAAP became a byword around the Bayswater Oval and he became surely the most popular player to ever grace the orange colored shirt of that club.

Paap became revered as much for his temperament as for his skill. A born centre-half or pivot, he used his physical attributes to lift the standard of play of his club with which he made over 200 appearances.

In that time, Windmill won the state title in 1961 after being runners-up in 1960. After years of battling, the club won the Ampol Cup in 1970 the year that Paap won his fourth best and fairest.

PALESTINE'S TOUR OF AUSTRALIA (1939): Australia won two and drew one of the three Tests against this Palestinian touring side.

PAN HELLENIC: A strong NSW club, founded by a sector of the Greek community, which was for years the biggest drawcard in soccer. A revival of fortunes is anticipated in the near future. National coach Rale Basic for 1974.

Founded: 1957.

Ground: Wentworth Park, Glebe.

Colors: Blue and white vertical striped shirts, blue shorts, blue socks.

Honors: Won Second Division 1960. Beaten finalists Champs 1968.

PAPUA-NEW GUINEA: Australian administrators are very keen to develop soccer in nearby Papua-New Guinea. The past president of the Australian Coaches Federation, Denes Adrigan, spent four weeks coaching assignment there in 1968. He had previously visited the country in 1966. Adrigan set down specific plans for development of the code. This included advice on coaching, grading, club constitution, training. Adrigan reported that soccer is the most popular sport throughout the entire length and breadth of the islands. Crowds of 3,000 watch local matches in many centres.

PAPUA-NEW GUINEA TOUR (1968): A touring party from Papua-New Guinea visited NSW in March, 1968, for a short tour. The tourists were Sowena, Ani, Hobart, Sili, Kateu, Kau, Pliva, Dulaiha, Dotem, Kumalau, Samsden, Valaila, and Martinaze. The manager was S. G. of the PNG Police.

PARKLEA SOCCER ACADEMY: This is being developed on a area of acres between Blacktown and Castle Hill in the western suburbs.

Sydney. It is the brainchild of Charlie Valentine, a member of the State executive. Playing fields and dressing-room accommodation have been established and the area used for collective coaching. It is really a wonderful sporting complex and when fully developed it will be a showplace of great value to soccer.

PARSONS, Frank: One of the many Novocastrians who went to Sydney from northern NSW to win every honor the code could offer. He first played senior football with Adamstown, but transferred to Leichhardt when he came to Sydney to learn teaching at the Sydney Teachers' College. Parsons was robust in his approach work in the tackle. In the air he was a real "killer". At times he showed that degree of impetuosity that one expects from an auburn-haired youth full of vigour. He toured South Africa and New Zealand and scored goals galore — 16 in his international appearances. When he retired he became a State administrator and was co-manager of the Australian tour of Europe, in 1971.

PEARSON, Jimmy: A clever winger born in Scotland, where he was an instant success in the junior circles. Signed on by Ayr United at Somerset Park, he made great progress. In 1961, he turned down an attractive offer and migrated to Melbourne, where he soon won interstate honors for his speedy and intelligent play. In 1963, Pearson was the star of the NSW v Victoria match in Sydney. He was in brilliant form and netted two superb goals for Victoria. A big fee allowed him to join Pan-Hellenic in Sydney. His consistent wing play won for him a place in the Australian party which went to Asia in quest of the World Cup in 1965.

Pearson scored clever goals against the all conquering North Koreans. He was a sound flankman, crafty purveyor of the ball and full of guile in his approach work.

PERIN, John: Soccer fans in Adelaide are always ready to sing the praises of Johnny Perin, the brilliant midfielder from Juventus Adelaide club. Perin is of Italian origin but learnt all his football in South Australia. He has represented this state 25 times. He broke into the international sphere during the tour of New Caledonia in 1967 when he played against New Caledonia and New Zealand. His tally of caps has since risen to 11 with more likely to come. In possession, Perin is very tricky and adept at pushing tailor-made passes to his colleagues up front. He is a good linkman in all types of football.

POCOCK, Ray: A new striker arrived on the international scene of the Socceroos' departure for Munich, English born Ray Pocock. In his homeland, he served a useful apprenticeship with two clubs, Reading and Crystal Palace. Whilst at Elm Park, he revealed goal scoring potential. It was this virtue that took him to South London, where he finished his schooling for the big "stadium". Pocock migrated to Victoria and served two years with the City. Rasic took him to Hungaria-Melbourne where he prospered. In 1971, he transferred to Sydney club Canterbury-Manly. A personal disappointment for him when the "Berries" were promoted but Pocock showed great club loyalty and was the big "scorer" as the Arlington club regain top grading. In three years he netted just over a half century of goals.

Goal-scoring Record: J. Chrzanowski, 58 in 1952.

POOLS, ON SOCCER: Back in the early 1950s a number of English pools companies began a summer series based on the results of Australian matches. These companies granted the local association a small fee to use their matches on the pools coupons. However, when these matches were copyrighted, this fee jumped by thousands — in 1973 it was just over $50,000. The English pools companies' major concern was to keep the girls who had become highly skilled in sorting pools coupons busy during the British summer. They had found that many of their staff left them if they were not kept busy in the hot weather period when there was no soccer in Britain. Initially they were concerned mainly with keeping their organisations intact, but they have been agreeably surprised by the large number of Australians who fill in coupons and post them to Britain. In 1974, there were reports that big pools companies such as Littlewoods were discussing the possibility of starting local pools operation with some State governments.

PORt ADELAIDE: A 71-year-old South Australian club which in 1956, amalgamated with Port Thistle.

Founded: 1903.

Goal-scoring Record: Second Division record, Dave Norris in 1948 scored 69 goals for Port Thistle.

PRAHRAN SLAVIA: A Victorian club founded as Slavia by a group of Czechoslovakian migrants in 1949. Later it changed its name to Prahran-Slavia with headquarters at Port Melbourne. Plans for the future are to secure a ground in Prahran where it has a strong following. Five internationals have worn the club's colors, Hammy Vojtěch, Billy Cook, Nigel Shepherd, John Duffy, and Des Parker. A former club star was Willy Schroif, former Czech international.

Founded: 1949.

Ground: Jubilee Park, Ringrove.

PYRMONT RANGERS: This Sydney club became known as Pyrmont when the State Association introduced district soccer into the Pyrmont area. For over 40 seasons the "Monts" were a strong force in premiership and Cup soccer.

Founded: 1885. Defunct 1958.

QUEENSLAND: Soccer is much older in Queensland than many people realise. The inaugural club was founded in 1883 by a group of Scots who became bored with Rugby. The name of the club was Rangers — shades of Ibrox Park. In 1890, interstate games were begun with NSW. Return matches in 1896 gave the Brisbane folk their first taste of inter-State rivalry.

After World War 1 the standard of Queensland soccer rose considerably, and serious premiership clashes started in 1920 when Corinthians took the flag. But of far more importance was the manner in which the game spread to country areas. Clubs were set up at Cairns, Bundaberg, Mackay, Townsville, Innisfail, Mt Morgan, Gympie, Ipswich, Rockhampton, Maryborough and Toowoomba. The influx of Italian workers on the sugar farms improved standards of play, and inter-city rivalry started in earnest when the Kruger Cup was inaugurated in 1946 for Brisbane v Ipswich games. The Federation form of control took over in 1961 and everywhere in the State reports of progress are promising. In 1972, the creation of a soccer complex at Perry Park, Brisbane, was the fulfilment of a dream long-cherished by a group of far-sighted administrators.

Queensland soccer has a premiership winning side which is determined with the most points after the set number of rounds have been completed and a champion side (winners of the grand final). This system of determining Final winners and champions was introduced from 1959.

QUILL, Alf ("Artie"): The best buy in the history of Australian soccer sums up Wallsend's capture of the Annandale scoring ace Artie Quill when in 1930 he moved to Wallsend, "just to get a job in the depression years". Quill had a great shot in both feet. It wasn't his physique that made him the menace of all goalies; it was his quick eye for a chance and his nippiness in moving into open spaces to score. For 30 metres Quill had a tremendous burst of speed so his entry into Northern NSW schools became a real blaze of glory.

Under Quill's influence, Wallsend crushed all opposition and pennant after pennant flew from the Crystal Palace poles. Quill won many interstate and international honors. He was never spoken to by a referee, despite the rough tactics of opponents who strove to keep him "dead shot centre" off the target. Under Quill, many players like Dettie Parkes, Wilkinson, Lonergan, and Herd went on to win many honours. Quill went to Sydney to create records for Goodyear, but at heart he was always a Wallsender.

Western Suburbs' Allan Ainslie, right, looks fiercely determined as he brings the ball under control against South Coast at Drummoyne.

RADIO BROADCASTS, OF SOCCER: The first full match coverage by radio in Australia was in June, 1932, when station 2HD Newcastle broadcast the New Zealand v. Northern XI game at Newcastle Sports Ground. Commentators were: first half, Sid Grant (journalist); second half, Roy Druery (State Treasurer). First Australian coverage of the English Cup final from Wembley, Sheffield Wednesday v. West Bromwich Albion was replayed by station 2GB Sydney, in April, 1935. First complete radio coverage of State Premiership Grand Final, Canterbury v. Wallsend at Sydney Cricket Ground No. 2 was in November, 1945. First coverage of State Cup final, Canterbury v. Adamstown at SCG No. 2 was in October, 1946. First international match broadcast, Australia v. English Amateurs at SCG No. 1 in July, 1937 — commentators G. Phillips (ABC) and J. Tunnington (England).

RASIC, Rale: Coach of the "Socceroos" who will go to Munich for the finals in the 1974 World Cup. Born at Mostar in Hercegovina. His father was killed in Trieste. Rasic learned to play soccer in the grounds of an orphanage. At 17, he was selected to play for Yugoslavia in the Junior World Cup series. He entered Belgrade University to study physical culture but migrated to Melbourne owing to an injured knee.

He was unsettled with the Victorian JUST club so he returned to Belgrade and secured his Physical Education degree. In 1966, he went back to Melbourne with JUST, and became a teacher at Melbourne High School. After success at that job, Rasic moved to Sydney to take charge of the Australians for the 1974 World Cup quest. Rasic is an excellent coach, who has won the confidence of all players, officials and the public. In 1973, he coached Marconi-Fairfield, but in 1974 he moved to Pan-Hellenic. His emphasis on defence prevented Australia from being disgraced in our initial appearance in the World Cup finals, even if it did underline our lack of striking power up front. Rasic has laid down firm guidelines for our next World Cup bid in 1978, including a switch to full-time professionalism by our top clubs.

RAVENSWOOD OLYMPIC: A North Tasmanian club that has had service from player-coach, Terry Clark, who has worn the State cap 18 times.

Founded: 1967.

Ground: Ravenswood Park, Ravenswood.

Colors: Orange shirts with light blue bands; white shorts with orange tops.

Honors: Knock-Out Cup 1969; James Bull Cup 1969

Goal-scoring record: J. Johnston, 26 goals in 1970.

REFEREES (Past and Present): Due to the system of education adopted by the standard of Australian refereeing is highly satisfactory. In the higher ranks. Over many years, managers of touring sides agreed with this comment. Training and testing of candidates began in operation since 1910 when the first referees association was formed in Newcastle by the late Tom Crawford, a former captain of the North of England. He also had two years' service in the Army. Crawford's plan was to educate, test on the field and then re-test. It was a success and soon spread to all States.

World Cup Referee: Sydney referee Tony Boskovic was appointed to the panel of officials to control the finals in the 1974 World Cup in Munich, West Germany. Boskovic, who migrated from Yugoslavia to Australia, 19 years ago, is the first Australian to be so honored. Boskovic, a very competent official, has controlled many big games here. Boskovic won recognition for Australian refereeing when he was chosen to referee the Holland v. Bulgaria World Cup match.

Referees with FIFA badges: Since 1970, FIFA has recognised some of Australia's leading referees, including: T. Boskovic (NSW), P. Rampling (NSW), G. Harrison (V), R. Lamb (V), D. Campbell (SA), G. Muir (N NSW), V. Dobinson (Q), T. Bude (WA), R. Stedman (WA), J. Allen (WA), D. Miles (Q).

Referee's Appearance Record: Newcastle's outstanding referee, George Muir has made 444 appearances in first grade matches. Muir also has officiated at many junior games bringing his tally to well over the 1,000 mark. Muir played first-class soccer, rugby union, cricket and swimming. Today he helps administer the Northern NSW Referees Association. A Sydney referee, Frank Sbisa, has officiated at 350 first division matches. A former Italian player he was still in active service in season 1974.

REILLY, Jack: A superb goalie who achieved a rare feat in winning back his position in the Australian team after vacating it. His selection for Munich vindicated all those south of the Murray who argued Reilly was our top goalie. A Scot by birth at Stonehaven, he played with Hibernians in Scotland and Washington Whips in the U.S. He turned up in Melbourne where he was quickly snapped up by Juventus. He showed all the skills. He transferred to St. George (Sydney) but was soon back in the southern capital with Hakoah. He won a place in the World Tour of 1970 and had a very successful trip. Reilly has exceptional positional sense, and shows complete confidence with high flyers. His kicking has length and direction.

RICE, BILLY: A wise captain as well as a grand stopper. Rice has completed 20 years in senior service in Melbourne soccer.

Born in Belfast in Northern Ireland. After a successful junior career he had extended trials with Ards & Coleraine. He accepted an invitation to join the Footscray Club in Melbourne. It was a very wise move for Rice as he soon won fame as an efficient pivot. A club amalgamation brought him to JUST and here he won all the honors that the game offers.

RICHARDS, RAY: His form in international and State games has been so consistent that the fans have given him the title "King Richard".

Born in the South of England he migrated to Queensland when 19 years old. He soon attracted southern touts and shifted to Sydney to join Marconi, after a brief stay with Croatia. He has become a permanent cog in the national machine; he is robust in tackle and when in possession has a directness in attack that can upset any defence. Noted for his consistency and constant endeavours to push ahead. He scorns frills for directness when it comes to tackling.

Known far and wide for his long throw, being the longest thrower in the Southern Hemisphere. He played a tough, no holds barred role in the World Cup matches in Germany several times up-ending famous opponents with legitimate tackles. He was very unlucky to receive a one match suspension in the final match against Chile in what appeared a referee's error. Richards was the first Australian ever sent off in World Cup matches.

RINGWOOD CITY-WILHELMINA: A progressive Victorian club which has unrestricted use of Jubilee Oval built at its own expense. Floodlights have been installed, a classical example of what "love of the game" will achieve. In its earlier days, the team had a run of 56 games without a loss. Now serving a developing area.

Founded: 1953.

Ground: Jubilee Park, Ringwood.

Colors: Orange shirts, orange shorts, orange socks.

Honors: Ampol Cup, 1962; Armstrong Cup, 1961-69-71-72; Premiers, 4th Division, 1954; 3rd Division, 1955; 2nd Division, 1956.

Coaches: M. De Bruyckere, E. Kontra.

Long service players: M. de Bruyckere, M. Pye, R. Ward, S. Steele, N. Van Egmond, C. Matheon, A. Reimers.

Goal-scoring record: T. Keuken, 29.

RIOTS: At Abermain Oval in September, 1917, semi-final in Kerr Cup between local rivals, Weston Albions v. Weston Magpies, the crowd rushed ground when an irate spectator attacked a goalie. Mounted police from a nearby colliery-compound arrived and cleared the field in 15 minutes. Play ended in a 1 all draw. This was in the midst of national coal strike. The replay was taken to Newcastle, 40 miles away, away.

During an Australian Cup semi final in Melbourne between South Melbourne Hellas and Hakoah, supporters rushed the field when goal was awarded. SM Hellas was fined $100 and Hakoah placed in the final against Apia.

At Arlington Oval on August 13, 1966, a match was abandoned when spectators rushed the field and kicked referee Timms and lineman P. Nikolas. Police quickly cleared the field but play was abandoned in the 58th minute. Polonia who were leading by 2 to 0 at the time, were awarded the points.

SPECTATORS BARRED. In an unprecedented move the Victorian Soccer Federation indefinitely postponed the Croatia-Footscray JUST soccer matches scheduled for the season after brawls and political agitation after the Ampol Cup final on March 10, 1972. They decided to play the game without admitting the public, at a venue to be announced to the players only 24 hours before kick-off. The VSF revoked its decision almost two months later, and chairman John Groton resigned over the decision. He was reinstated a week later.

ROBERTS, JOHN: Back with Apia in 1974 after seven hard seasons as a fully fledged professional overseas. A product of Cessnock, he joined Apia and was Australia's first goalie in a World Cup match. A thrashing defeat at the hands of North Korea in the first tie at Phnom Penh gave Roberts' confidence a nasty jolt. To test his true worth, he went to England to try his luck. In his sojourn there, he played in turn for Blackburn Rovers, Chesterfield, Bradford City and Northampton. On a TV coverage of a F. A. Cup tie at Elwood Park, Blackburn, he gave a classical display, making save after save. Roberts has proved a keen student and has benefited from expert overseas' coaching.

RODNY, Karel: One of the most progressive administrators in the NSW Federation. He was recently elevated to the high rank of second Vice President of that organisation. He is the only surviving executive who was among the founders of the Federation in 1956. He has been president of both Hakoah and Prague Clubs. In more recent years he has filled with success the job of team-manager for NSW teams. Popular with all sections of the code and renowned for his sustained devotion to soccer.

ROMANOWICZ, ROGER: One of the most reliable goalies to come out of South Australia. Born in Germany, he went to Adelaide as a child. In his junior days he showed a liking to play as half-back but with greater experience and expert coaching he changed to goalkeeping. He went on to win 30 State caps and made eight international appearances. His form against Dundee, Manchester United, and Roma revealed him as a clever player every ready to improve his status. He is a devoted player for Polonia Adelaide, with which club he has made more than 250 appearances. He is also a life member of the SASF — a single honor.

ROONEY, JIM: Born in Scotland where he won fame as a junior. Rather than develop his career in Scotland, Rooney migrated to Victoria and soon stood out in Melbourne soccer for his terrier-like efforts. An attractive offer from Lambert Park saw Rooney join Apia in Sydney. In 1972, he played for the State v. Dundee and later for Australia v. Santos. Rooney will never forget that match for his goal in the first half brought cheers from the record crowd. Even Pele stopped and clapped. What Rooney lacks in speed he compensates for with determination unending. He is now skipper of Apia which team started the 1974 season with a great win in the Ampol Cup.

RUDIC, Ivo: A last minute selection for Munich, Ivo Rudic was born in Yugoslavia, where he was an established first grade defender before he migrated to Sydney to help the Yugal Club. In 1974 he transferred to Pan-Hellenic and entered the international sphere immediately. Over 6 feet tall, he is powerfully built and a hard player to elude. Ball control is excellent, while he is a master of the high ball.

RUSSELL, Garvin ("Massa"): Developed in the Adamstown junior ranks. Soon after World War 1 he became a regular centre forward with Adamstown Rosebuds, and played over 300 games and netted over 250 goals for this club. Russell was a rugged type of centre whose speed when in possession made him a danger man to any defence. Russell played for Northern NSW and for the State, and toured Java with the Australian team in 1931. When he retired, he became an administrator with Adamstown and was the prime mover in the creation of the Rosebuds Social Club, which now strongly supports both senior and junior soccer.

Safeway United's Jimmy McGrotty moves away from a Western Suburbs opponent at Drummoyne.

SAFEWAY UNITED: A southern NSW club, whose captain-coach is the present Australian captain Peter Wilson. When the Federation was founded in Sydney in 1957, Corrimbal Rangers entered but in 1960 the club changed its name to South Coast United. In 1972, to secure sponsorship, it became Safeway United under the same administration.
Founded: 1891 (Corrimbal), 1960 as South Coast United, 1972 Safeway United.

Ground: Woonona Oval, Woonona.

Colors: Yellow with red trim shirts, yellow shorts, blue socks.

Honors: As Corrimbal, State Premiership 1943; State League Cup 1947; Southern Premiership 1943; Sheahan Cup 1943; Hickey Cup 1943; Gibson Cup 1943; Nurse Cup 1911; Tooth Cup 1931-35; Sydney Cup 1942-54-55; South Coast Premiers 1906-10-11; Charity Cup 1911. As South Coast United, Federation Champions 1963; Federation Premiers 1965-69.

SANDY BAY OLYMPIC: A southern Tasmanian club.

Founded: 1964.

Colors: Royal blue shirts, red trim, blue shorts, blue socks.

SANTOS, BRAZIL, SYDNEY VISIT (1972): The Australian Soccer Federation paid an Australian record guarantee of $40,000 US to the world-famous Santos team for one match in Sydney. Santos, which included the great Pele, refused to take the field until they were paid the guarantee in cash. Officials found it difficult to find that amount in banknotes on a Saturday afternoon and had to use some of the notes taken through the gate. Play started about 15 minutes late. Santos 2 drew with an Australian XI 2, before a crowd of 28,755. Gate receipts exceeded $70,000 Aust.

SCHAEFER, Manfred: A solid defender, highly popular with Sydney crowds. He was born in Germany, but came to Sydney with his parents as a lad. His success in soccer had been well won. He was a star in the national teams of 1967-68 and against Greece and in the series in Sydney he rose to the top. As a defender he is in the same mould as Ray Richards — dependable and sure. Schaefer is a keen disciple of training, and produces an unending stamina. He has tactical vision and can be very quick in recovery when danger threatens. In 1972, Schaefer suffered an injury, but with characteristic courage he overcame the setback, regained his place in the Socceroos much to the delight of the "hillites" and St George fans.

SCHEINFLUG, Les: There is perhaps no imported player who has done more for Australian soccer than Scheinflug, first as a player and then as a coach. Born in Yugoslavia of German parents, he came to Australia from Hanover in West Germany just before Federation and settled over in Sydney. He joined Prague as a left-half and was immediately successful. In his first representative match against Hearts of Midlothian, he played a superb game. He won many honors as a player and as a captain. He went to Asia with the 1st World Cup team and had the honor of scoring Australia's first goal in a World Cup. Since he retired, he has proved a top ranking coach. He is now coach to Rale Basic with the Socceroos.

SCHOOLBOY SOCCER: An Australian Schoolboys' Soccer Federation founded in March, 1974, at a meeting in Sydney. Its main object is to promote and encourage international and interstate soccer schools. There have been international schoolboy games between Australia and New Zealand and the new body plans to extend this activity to include many other countries. The inaugural officers were, President, Frank Degan (NSW); Vice-President, Roger Williams (Tasmania); Treasurer, Jock Dodds (NSW); Secretary, Roy Smith (NSW).

SCOTLAND TOUR (1967): A strong Scottish team defeated Australia in three matches, conceding only one goal. The tourists were: Goalkeepers, H. Thomson (Burnley), J. Cruickshanks (Hearts of Midlothian); Defenders, W. Callaghan, J. Colquhoun (West Bromwich Albion), D. Townsend (Hearts); Midfielders, A. Anderson (Hearts), J. McCallum (Kilmarnock), D. Fraser (West Bromwich Albion), A. Penman (Aberdeen); Attackers, J. McCalliog (Sheffield Wednesday), J. McCallum (Huddersfield), R. Hope (West Bromwich Albion), A. McLean (Dunfermline Athletic), H. Hood (Clyde), W. Morgan (Bury), J. Tinney (Bury), A. McLean (Clyde); Managers, R. Brown (Sheffield Wednesday).

SEAMONDS, Dr Henry: A past president of the Australian and NSW Soccer Federations, and an outstanding administrator for Hakoah Eastern Suburbs (Sydney) club. He was educated at Sydney Grammar School, and graduated in medicine at Sydney University. He showed excellent form in athletics and Rugby Union, and his sprinting prowess won many honors. Henry Seamonds' work as foundation president of the ASF won the respect of all sections of the code. He succeeded in pushing aside pettiness, and set up plans for development, which enabled the State Federation to mould the ASF into a strong national unit. After two years service he suffered a heart attack and died just a few hours after the annual meeting in Melbourne in February, 1963. It was a tragic loss to the game but his influence lived on. Much of the recent rapid progress has been due to the plans Dr Seamonds formulated.

SHEPHERD, Nigel: A very efficient club captain with Sydney's Croatia, and an able defender. Born at Dechmart in Scotland he showed promise as a back right from his schooldays. After experience in the local juniors, he was signed as a professional by Airdrieonians and while at Bloomfield Park won praise for his defensive work. In 1966, he came to Sydney Croatia after four successful seasons with Slavia in Melbourne, and won international and State caps. Shepherd does things in a modest way with a minimum of fuss, and his long, well placed clearances often turn defence into attack.

SING TAO TOUR (1966): This Hong Kong combination conducted a six match tour of Australia and later played five matches in New Zealand.

SMITH, George: A product of the small mining town of Coledale N.S.W. Smith turned out to be one of the most effective goal scorers, centre forwards between the two wars. He was a physical giant, over 6ft, 14½ st and of very athletic build. In attack he knew no fear and used his height and weight with devastating effect. Although he scored hundreds of goals with his feet, his effective headwork put him in super-star class. He perfected a head movement which when it hit the gliding ball sent it like lightning into the net. He changed clubs regularly, moving from Corrimal to St George to Granville to Metters to St. George, and his total tally of goals reached the 600 mark. He played often for Australia and NSW, and captained both. Since his retirement from soccer, he has gained a high position in the State Police Force.

SOCCEROOS: To distinguish a touring Australian soccer party from other national football combinations, the word "Socceroos" was adopted during the 1972-73 quest for the right to go to Munich for the World Cup. The name and accompanying badge were the works of a leading Sydney sporting journalist and his colleague, a news photographer.

SOCIAL CLUBS: In NSW, social clubs with licensing facilities and slot machines are providing finance for the developing of the code. Other clubs not wholly committed to soccer also subsidise teams, like the Apia Club in Leichhardt. The main football-controlled clubs are Auburn, Granville, Hakoah (in Bondi), Marconi (Fairfield), St George (Mortdale), Yugal (Hillsdale). In the North, there are Adamstown, Rosebuds and Wallsend. Workers' Clubs at Weston and West Wallsend also provide help. On the NSW South Coast, the Woonona Club has affinity with Safeway United.

SOUTH AFRICA TOUR (1947): The first South African soccer team to visit Australia lost only one match, and ran up some big scores. Results:

SOUTH AUSTRALIA: Soccer was first played in South Australia in 1897, by a band of soccer enthusiasts from the Norwood area. Workers at the Holford's Pottery fielded strong teams but scratch matches went on till 1902. Then under the guidance of F. Storr, of Adelaide, the set-up was re-formed. Teams were fielded from North Adelaide, South Adelaide and Woodville. Two years later Sturt came into being, followed by Port Adelaide, Hindmarsh, Cambridge, Railways, Adelaide, and Cheltenham. In the first war all competitions were suspended, but progress continued after the Armistice. After 1950, there was rapid increase in players due to migration from Europe. When Federation came in 1967, the whole organisation was altered and pleasing progress was made in Adelaide and in country areas. Night soccer added to the game's popularity. The South Australian team is now well coached and can offer strong opposition to other States in the future.

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN RECORDS

Most goals (in a season): 40 by M. Dunbar, Cumber and Co., Port Lincoln, 1943.

Most goals (in a match): 13 by R. Kaufman for the Austrian Club v. Murray Bridge in Second Division, May 5, 1962.

Biggest club score: 33 to 0 by the Austrian Club, Murray Bridge, May 5, 1962.

Impressive club performances: Juventus (Adelaide) won the First Division premiership in four successive years, 1956 to 1959. Juventus won the title without conceding a point, scoring 94 against 10. Juventus also won the "double" — League premiership and Cup — in three successive years, 1957 to 1959.

SA's "Mr. Soccer": Bob Telfer, who won international honours as player, referee, and team manager, a record unsurpassed.

STEPHENS, Charles: The first soccer secretary in Australia. He held position with the Caledonian Club and for N.S.W. Stephens was born in South Africa of Scot parentage. He returned to Scotland as a boy and played amateur soccer in Glasgow. He then migrated to Sydney and was a pioneer of Australian Soccer. Stephens was a tireless worker and encouraged the development of the game in Victoria and New South Wales (NSW). He was our first soccer journalist and wrote on soccer for the Sydney Morning Herald under the pen-name "Caledonia".

STOREY, Syd: A controversial long service administrator in national State circles. Storey was a product of Sydney's Balmain club and went to New Zealand as secretary-player in 1922, and was secretary of the body from 1922 to 1928, when his association lost control through the success of the State League. He was president of the Australian Soccer Association from 1928 to 1963, when he was forced out of office by the Federation movement. In private life, Storey was secretary of the Hornsby District Hospital. He also represented Hornsby in the State Parliament for three terms. He was regarded by many as too conservative in his leadership as he always opposed reform. He died in the late 1960s.

SUSPENSION, by FIFA: The Australian Soccer Association was suspended by FIFA in April, 1960 — three years after Federation. It was found guilty of allowing players to participate in matches without an international transfer certificate. The players listed in the official journal (No. 33) of April, 1961, were also suspended. A total claim of $92,000 in transfer fees was claimed for the poached players. They were:

From Austria, Johann Neunold, Leopold Baumgartner, Karl Jaros, Andreas Sagi, Erich Schwarz, Erwin Ninaus, Walter Tamandl, Klaus Griletz, Herbest Nibaus, Peter Hrcicir, Erwin Fojtlin, Alfred Durnberger, Heinrich Wenzl, Adolf Blutsch.

From The Netherlands, R. N. van Heeswijk, W. van de Gaag, L. Bosklopper, D. van Alphen, J. J. Bons, W. A. Zoeteman.

After negotiations between Australia and these countries, the fees were reduced to $37,500, and later these fees were further reduced. With help from certain business houses the fees were paid, and the suspensions on the Australian Soccer Association and on the players were lifted. Australia was granted re-affiliation with FIFA in July, 1963, and then became acceptable for nomination in the future World Cup series.

SUTHERLAND: During its short term in Sydney's First Division, Sutherland has worked hard to popularise the round ball code in a vast area with an expanding population.

Founded: 1962.

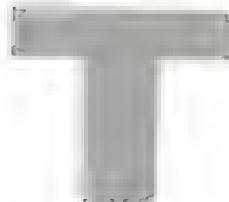

Ground: Seymour Park, Sutherland.

Colors: Sky blue and white shirts, sky blue shorts, sky blue and white hooped socks.

Honors: Won Second Division South 1971.

Left, Jim Fraser punches the bag clear in a Sparring match. Fraser was unlucky to have withdrawn from the 1974 World Cup trip to West Germany because of his religious commitments.

TASMAN CUP: The knock-out championship among State high schools in NSW. It was inaugurated in 1962 and is one of the success stories in post-war soccer. Season after season, it is staged with great efficiency and has become a crowd pleaser. The trophy was donated by Tasman Dry Cleaner and originally planned for the Sydney area only. Demands by Country schools for inclusion, promoted the committee to make it State wide in 1964. To make the series more attractive, Western Suburbs have donated a trophy for the runners-up, while Adamstown Rosebuds gave another cup for third place. The State Federation donates $750 each year to help travelling expenses.

In 1963 10 teams competed, 190 in 1973 and 210 in 1974.

Past winners are: 1962, Maroubra Bay; 1963, Macquarie (Sydney); 1964, Wallsend; 1965, East Hills and Keira equal; 1966, Cleveland St. and Strathfield South equal; 1967, Booragul; 1968, Newcastle Technical, 1969, Booragul, 1970, Berkeley; 1971, Meadowbank; 1972, Newcastle Technical; 1973, Newcastle Technical. The 1973 final played at Austral Ground, Newcastle, drew a crowd of 5,512.

TASMANIA: Soccer in our smallest and island State can be traced back to the turn of the century. A group of former British folk formed clubs and played challenge matches with enthusiasm. Cadbury, Sandy Bay and North and South Hobart were the centres of activity. Then in the north, soccer sprang up in Launceston, Devonport and Burnie. Interstate games were few but great satisfaction was gained from the North v. South intrastate games. Visits by overseas teams have helped and Tasmania was the only State to beat Chinese Athletic in 1923. However, there has been a sense of hostility towards the game from supporters of other codes. An attempt was made to stop the Tasmania v. England match in 1951 by spreading broken bottles on the pitch. This piece of stupidity won soccer many friends among those who loved fair play. Since Federation took over control in 1960, the game has advanced because of the influx of migrants, plus efficient administration by a wonderful group of loyal officials.

TELFER, Robert: SA's "Mr. Soccer", Telfer has served soccer with distinction in every sphere of the game. He was born at Wilshaw in Scotland where he played as a junior until he migrated to South Australia in 1927. As a player, he was captain-coach for the Kingswood Club (1928-41). He played for South Australia 13 times and in 1931 was captain of the Australian team which toured Java. Telfer became an active referee in 1943 and officiated at the first international ever between Australia and South Africa. Between 1950 and 1957, he won praise for his work as team manager of both international and interstate teams. On the administrative side, his work covered a long period from 1934 to 1962. One of his most cherished honors is that of life membership of the South Australian Soccer Association. His work as a sporting journalist has also won wide admiration.

THOMSON, Jimmy: Set an Australian record -- and it may be a world record too -- when his four sons followed their father and became regular senior players in the same club. Jimmy Thomson had a meritorious career in East Scotland junior and was invited to become a professional with the famous Hearts of Midlothian. But instead Jimmy joined his brother Wal, and they migrated as miners to Cessnock. Tough as leather, with a powerful, nuggetty frame, he soon took on the title, "Iron Man Thomson". He was a demon in the tackle and cleared his lines with rocket like volleys which seldom failed to reach the 60 yards mark. Besides building soccer in Cessnock, he captained NSW three times and coached his four sons Angus, Gordon, Jimmy and Keith. The first mentioned three copied their dad by wearing State colors. Poor old Jimmy met a tragic death but for years his traits and mannerisms were seen as his sons graduated in the game.

TOLSON, Max: Since Federation control took over, Max Tolson is probably the best player produced on the NSW south coast. After excelling as a junior, he came under the guidance of the well known and popular coach, Jimmy Kelly, formerly of Blackpool. To further his skills, Tolson joined the English club, Workington, where he became their regular striker. Tolson is powerfully built and weighs over 13½ st. He sweeps into the attack with boyish abandon and is a proven goal getter. After a short spell with Marconi, Tolson returned in 1974 to Safeway United to help the south coast club take honors at Woonona Park

TORONTO-AWABA: After many seasons in the junior ranks, Awaba entered the Northern NSW second division in 1956 and soon won promotion to first division. A progressive club that caters for junior grades.

Founded: 1955.

Ground: Toronto Sports Ground, Toronto.

Colors: Orange with blue trimmings shirts, white shorts, orange and blue socks.

Honors: Won second division 1956; Runners-up first division grand final 1972; Daniels Cup 1959-60-70; Ampol Cup North 1970.

TRIDENT: A Queensland migrant club which combined with the former Dnipo club in 1973.

Founded: 1970.

Ground: Raymond Park, East Brisbane.

Colors: Blue and gold shirts, blue shorts, blue socks with gold tops.

TRANSFER FEES: An Australian record transfer fee of $20,000 was paid for striker Adrian Alston in July, 1974. Luton Town, an English First Division club, paid the fee to Alston's Australian club, Safeways United, following his impressive performances in the 1974 World Cup matches in West Germany. Alston migrated to Australia from England in 1968 and played 26 times for Australia. He appeared in a total of 199 senior matches in Australia, for Safeways in 1968, 1969, 1973, 1974 and for St. George in 1970, 1971 and 1972.

TRAGEDY: Australian soccer has been mainly free of tragedy in its 80-year history. The major one occurred on the Homestead Ground at Weston, 40 miles north of Newcastle (NSW), in late August, 1923, when lightning struck the dressings sheds during a midweek training session. A heavy downpour during a violent thunderstorm drove a group of players into the shed, which was struck by a thunderbolt. One of the club's most accomplished half backs, Peter Coppick, was killed along with a junior player. Four others were injured but recovered. Coppick had previous experience with Merewether and Newcastle City and had won state honors against Queensland.

TUTING, Victor: Over the past 50 years Mr. Tuting has worked for the consolidation of soccer in Tasmania. The fight has been a tough one as opposition codes have been bitter in their opposition. Born in Rochdale, England, he arrived in Hobart in 1920 and helped Tasmania come under national control in the early thirties. He is a capable speaker, with a wide vision of the needs of the code and in 1974 was senior vice-president of the A.S.F. He was made a life member in 1964.

TELEVISION: An invaluable aid to promoting soccer which many believe televises more impressively than any other sport. Some interesting TV milestones:

- The first soccer game televised in Australia was the Bulgaria v. India play-off for the third position at the 1956 Melbourne Olympics. The commentator was the ABC's Martin Royal.
- Late in 1974 the two internationals South Korea v. Australia at Seoul and play-off at Hong Kong were televised, the first matches seen here via satellite.
- Other important games televised by ABC and commercial channels include the World Cup tie, Israel v. Australia, in Sydney, and the Olympic Final Soviet Russia v. Bulgaria which was televised to all Australian States from the MCG in December, 1956.
- The 100th English Cup Final between Leeds United and Arsenal was televised from Wembley in color, in May, 1972.

UNIVERSITY SOCCER: Remarkable progress has been made since World War II in developing soccer at Australian Universities. Six tournaments are staged annually. Participants include: Melbourne, Monash, Latrobe, Sydney, New South Wales, Macquarie, New South Armidale, Perth, Adelaide, Flinders, Hobart, Queens and Townsville Universities. A majority of these universities enter teams in second or third division in the States' local competitions as well as the knock out series. There is a strong move afoot to send an Australian Combined Varsity team to tour Great Britain.

UNDER 23 YEARS INTERNATIONAL: The under 23 years international made a three match tour of Indonesia in April, 1974. Seven state Federations had representatives in the twenty squad controlled by the National Coach Director, Eric Worthington. The squad comprised Queensland: Kevin Jones, Charles Drench, John Fagan.

Northern NSW: Warren Halverson, Joe Senkalski, Victor Juchnevich.

ACT: Walter Valeri.

Victoria: Vince Barron, Mike Micevski, Joe Palinkas, Fausto Taranto.

South Australia: John Nyskohus, John Cichinski.

Tasmania: John Genovesi.

West Australia: John Davidson, Gary Matelian.

NSW: Alan Maher, Greg Lynch, Murray Barnes, Gary Byrne.

URUGUAY, TOUR BY (1974): Twice winners of the World Cup, Uruguay conducted a two match tour of Australia in April, 1974. The visitors failed to win a game and in defeat proved an ill-tempered and undisciplined combination. In the second game in Sydney, Australia's most experienced international, Ray Baartz was injured and suffered partial paralysis. Baartz was too ill to be considered for selection in the Socceroos for Munich. However the ASF arranged for Baartz to accompany the tourists as a guest. Results of tour:
Australia 0 v Uruguay 0 at Melbourne Olympic Stadium, Crowd 22,000.
Australia 2 v Uruguay 0 at Sydney Cricket Ground, Crowd 25,708.

UTJESENOVIC, Doug.: A key player in defence in the Socceroos line-up for Munich. In his native Yugoslavia, he played 30 games with the famous OFK Belgrade team and this revealed the high quality of his defensive play. At 23, he decided to try a new life in Australia, and joined JUST in Melbourne, where he immediately won a high reputation. The authorities soon had him in the national squad. In 1971, he joined St. George in Sydney and has gone from success to success. A defender cast in a classical mould, he proved a great asset for the Socceroos in their fight to get to Munich. He is a great kicker of the stationary ball, and he can often turn free-kicks into productive channels.

Cagey Israeli goal keeper Iszhak Vissoker, one of the finest exponents of his position to visit Australia, gets his body well behind the ball as he saves in the Sydney match against Hakosh.

VICTORIA: In 1882, an English insurance clerk, Mr. A. A. Gibb, took up the challenge to get soccer started and called a meeting at Richmond. Soon four clubs were in existence, Carlton, Prahran, Melbourne Rovers and South Melbourne. A little later a fifth, Richmond, was founded. Interstate matches were played against NSW at home and away but caused little comment in press. Little is known except that the George Cup was the symbol of the Melbourne championship. There was a revival just before World War I when regular League and Cup programmes became permanent features of the game. Many new players came from the British fleet stationed near the Flinders Naval Depot in 1913, a Flinders Naval team ran up 13 goals against South Melbourne. But progress was hindered after the war by the refusal of educational authorities to allow soccer to be played in the schools. This attitude has long since changed. Today pupils are encouraged to play the game. In 1927 Victoria beat China 4-3. After the second war the big influx of migrants from Europe sent the popularity of the game spiralling. Today, junior clubs are springing up everywhere and interest in men's country centres indicate a definite revival. There is sound, efficient administration of soccer in Victoria which must bring further development. The Victorian press, too, adopts a more tolerant attitude to the game. Victoria's successes in big soccer have been hard earned with a 1-all draw with Cardiff City in 1968, a scoreless draw v. Greece in 1969, and a 2-1 defeat of Wales in 1971 among notable recent efforts.

Australia 6 d. Kowloon 2 at Saigon. Crowd 30,000

Australia 1 d. South Vietnam 0 at Saigon. Crowd 39,000

Scorers for Australia: A. Alston 4, D. McKinnon 2, J. Armstrong 1.

VOJTEK, Billy: An elusive striker in Australia's team for Munich. Born in Croatia, he had all his football tuition in Victoria with the Essendon Juniors. In 1962, Billy won selection in Croatia seniors and despite his lack of weight often outwitted bigger opponents by his sheer skill and trickery. In the Victoria v. Roma match he revealed that he can break into the open with fluency and attractiveness. He has won State and international honors many times. He went to Sydney and joined Croatia S.S. with success. Vojtek is at his best when he is able to extricate the ball from a group of players to create a scoring chance.

Harry Williams, first aborigine to win selection for Australia, demonstrates the sliding tackle against Greg Byles, of Western Suburbs.

W

WALKER, Charles, Dr: A Victorian authority on sports injuries and lecturer at the Interstate Symposium for Soccer Coaches held in Melbourne in 1967. Chief medical officer at the Olympic Games in 1956 for the soccer sector of the games. He is a great worker for Polonia Club and all amateur bodies in the southern State. Dr Walker is a former State selector, manager of State teams, and a life member of VSF since 1966.

WALKLEY, William Gaston, Sir: One of the country's outstanding football administrators. Following the sudden death of the late Dr. Henry Seamonds, he was elected president of the Australian Federation in 1963 and led Australian soccer through a difficult period. He was managing director of the Ampol Petroleum Oil Limited and was associated with that firm from its foundation in 1936. He was born in New Zealand in 1896 and had meritorious service with the New Zealand Forces in World War I. Sir William has been president of the NSW Institute for Deaf, Dumb and Blind Children for many years. He was knighted in 1967. Now in retirement, he still attends all the big soccer matches.

WALLSEND: The oldest club in northern NSW. It owns its own ground only seven minutes from the main business centre. A two-storied licensed social club on the southern end of the playing pitch supports soccer. For years the club was called "Rovers" but it is now known as Wallsend. The Wallsend district has always encouraged junior players and quite a crop of internationals has worn their colors, including Reg Date, Hedley Parkes, Jock Parkes, Dick Kemp, Bobby Frame, Pip Wilkinson, Podge Arthur. For five successive seasons, the club's secretary, Laurie Nelson was also club captain.

WARREN, Johnny: One of Australia's greatest soccer personalities, known to some as "Warren the Warrior". He was a product of the Canterbury area, and started his senior career with Canterbury in the first days of the Federation. Later he joined St George and it was with this club that he made his illustrious reputation. Warren is tough, well built and unrelenting. He shows splendid body balance and is endowed with superb ball control. He rose from the ranks to captain his country in the 1970 World Cup matches and soon revealed the power to exhort his team-mates to lift their game as the occasion demanded. Warren's career has given him all the drama that any game could offer — glorious victory — telling triumph — heartbreak defeat — and more recently, an heroic recovery from serious injury. His longevity in the top circles is due to his love of physical fitness. In all, Warren has served his club, State, Australia, and the code, with rare distinction. Now in the twilight of his great career, he has extra interests in sporting journalism and TV interviewing. He has made more than 40 appearances for Australia, and received the MBE for his services to sport.

WATKISS, John: Few players have given more distinguished service to Australian soccer than midfielder Johnny Watkiss. He was born in England but came here as a lad and has played all his football in Australia. Developed in the Canterbury area, he quickly made First Division when the shadows of Federation control became a reality. He transferred to Apia and created a record by scoring five goals v St George in a final at Westworth Park. Later he switched to St George when the officials there commenced their team building efforts. In his long career, Watkiss has excelled at both defence and attack. He has made over 20 appearances for Australia and many more for the State. Now a confirmed star, he has an excellent physique to maintain a high place in the game.

WEINSTEIN, Michael: A Victorian who has given years of service to soccer. He was a foundation member of the ASF and has been a life member since 1968. He has been associated with the Hakoah club for years, and was chairman of the board in 1967 58 69 73 74. He was also a trustee for the State body.

WEST AUSTRALIA: In the Depression days of 1891 92-93, when banks crashed and unemployment was prevalent more than 100 senior soccer players went west in search of gold and in the process helped consolidate soccer in the west. In the early days of the century, the annual inter-city clash between Perth and the Goldfields helped to popularise the game. From these games, the WA combination of 1909 was chosen to tour the east. Not only did this side forge a link between the west and the east but it showed that the standard of play in WA was high. Advent of the Federation after the war brought more improvements. The old problem of distance has been solved by aeroplanes, but West Australian officials showed courage and initiative by entering the famous Merdeka Cup on four occasions, viz 1967 68-69-70 with varying results. In 1968, WA finished third, their best effort. In 1971 they participated in the Anniversary Tournament in Asia. Stronger league competition is now available, with a higher standard in both the senior and junior ranks. With prospects of big growth in industry, "the west" may yet become a Mecca of good soccer.

WILKINSON, Jim ("Sketa"): A pint sized (5ft 2ins, 8st 12lb) winger who weathered 20 seasons in top grade soccer to set an all time record of 552 first class appearances. Wilkinson rose to the top by great dedication to training on the old Homestead ground where he spent days perfecting his skills. He enjoyed flank play because he had the space to display his speed, ball skills, swerve and subtlety. He proved a real source of energy. Defiantly he often walked into the attack to take on defenders twice his weight but he generally eluded them. He played eight internationals and eight Tests and scored 10 goals in these games. His playing comrades often remarked, "the bigger the occasion the better the midget plays," a great tribute indeed.

WILLIAMS, Harry: The first Aborigine to play for Australia. Williams toured Europe with the 1970 team as a teenager and was one of the successes of the tour. Of medium physique, he has developed skills that allow him to excel in any company. His attention to technique has made Williams a likeable star. His passing is neat and precise, his tackling well timed and effective and his covering tactics have often saved defensive colleagues for St George and the Socceroos. His coolness under pressure is admirable while the twisting and swerving of his body adds charm to his play.

WILSON, Peter: Australian captain in our first appearance in the World Cup finals. Born in the Middlesborough area of England. At Ayrsome Park, Middlesborough, he received his first schooling in the arts of soccer. Soon after his 21st birthday, he headed for Sydney in search of a chance to show his skills and settled on the South Coast where he found the soccer pastures green and rewarding. Since then, he has gone right to the top of the tree, and he is now an influential national skipper. Wilson is a top class defender or sweeper who can read his colleagues. Majestic in defence, he can dictate tactics from the air. He seldom wastes a pass when in possession. On and off the field, he is an immaculate gentleman - a man for all occasions. In 1974 he became Safeway's playing-coach, after a short break with Marconi. In his games Wilson often brings sunshine to drab, kick and rust matches. He is a resolute, dependable character, proud of his team's success against the odds in getting to Munich and quite capable of upsetting by his direct, forceful approach the faint hearted who go back on fancy football.

WISSINK, Chris: One of the most popular goalkeepers to appear in Australian soccer. With Swan Valley in 1968 Wissink gained a place in the team to tour Asia in quest of the famous Merdeka Cup. He started form early and against South Korea rose to such superb heights to defy the opposition that the Malayan crowds immediately called him The Octopus — he appeared to have eight hands, they said. Wissink was well-built, agile and quick to move to counter an attack. When the tourists returned to Perth Wissink received a special trophy for his sportsmanship for he was regarded as a great ambassador for his State and for soccer.

WOMEN'S SOCCER: In Australia, women's soccer enjoyed a wave of popularity in 1974, mainly due to the interest taken in World Cup affairs. Back in 1929, over 7,000 paid to see Speer's Point beat Weston by 1 to 0 for the State women's soccer title, under floodlights at the Sydney Sports' Ground. In March, 1974, three New Zealand club teams, Blackhouse Bay, Eden Saints, and Papakura Bay, invaded Sydney for a series of challenge matches. At the same time, a NSW Women's Soccer Federation was formed under the guidance of Mrs Pat O'Connor, secretary of the Sydney WSF. The women's game is also played in Queensland, South Australia and West Australia.

WORLD CUP: The World Cup, originally for the Jules Rimet Trophy, was first played in Montevideo in 1930. The plan for this famous cup was agreed by FIFA at the Antwerp Congress in 1920. The personal efforts of the French Football President Rimet, made it a reality. Rimet was also the President of FIFA. Initially England refused to join the international body because of part-time payments to players, and Australia's affiliation with the English Football Association placed her outside the international body. England rejoined FIFA after a break of 20 years and first entered the World Cup in 1950. When the Federation was formed in Australia, Australia was barred from FIFA because of the non-payment of transfer fees for migrant players from Europe. Soon after our readmittance to FIFA, Australian interest in the World Cup gained impetus and our initial entry was submitted for the 1966 World Cup. But it was not until our third try, that we reached the last 16 for Munich in 1974. Meanwhile Brazil by its victory in Mexico in 1970, won the Jules Rimet trophy outright. In its place, FIFA commissioned the Italian designer, Silvo Gazzainagh to design a statuette to cost $16,000. The new trophy will be called the FIFA World Cup and cannot be won outright. This trophy will be made of 18 carat gold and will weigh over 10 lb.

AUSTRALIA'S WORLD CUP PARTICIPATION

Twenty years ago, the World Cup was just another sporting trophy as far as Australia was concerned. The daily press gave five lines to the result of the final. But Australia really became involved in the World Cup when it secured re-affiliation with FIFA in 1963. A strong sub-committee was formed under the chairmanship of Jim Bayutti, of Sydney. After exhaustive inquiries, it was decided to enter the South East Asian zone. An Australian team travelled to Cambodia in 1965 for Group 16 elimination matches. Results:

Australia and Chile eliminated

1974 WORLD CUP FINAL

West Germany defeated Holland 2-1 in a thrilling match which had 75,000 spectators and 1,000 million TV viewers enthralled throughout. In a game that was sometimes frightening in its ferocity, West Germany recovered from the shock of conceding a first-minute penalty goal to equalise from a penalty and then snatch the winning goal two minutes before half-time. Holland stormed the West German goalmouth for most of the second half but failed to score. Often Holland looked technically superior but there was no denying the courage of the West German players. West Germany's victory meant that the World Cup trophy has only been won by five nations since the competition began.

1974 WORLD CUP PLACE-GETTERS

Grzegorz Lato confirmed his position as soccer's deadliest finisher by scoring the goal which gave Poland a 1-0 win over Brazil and third place in the 1974 World Cup competition. It was Lato's seventh goal in the World Cup finals, two more than anyone else.

His brother, Sandy played for NSW against Qld. in 1890. The famous Australian cricket star, Archie Jackson was a nephew. In 1897, J. J. was awarded the title, "Footballer of the Year" by the then famous journal "The Boys Own Annual".

Z

ZANETIC, Ante: One of the most accomplished overseas player to appear in club football under the Sydney Federation. He made a name for himself at the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome when he won a gold medal. A strong attacker, Zanetic was the star of the final when Yugoslavia beat Denmark by 3 to 1. Brilliant ball control and a wonderful sense of positional play, made Zanetic an addition to South Sydney Croatia in the middle sixties.

ZURICH: The lakeside city of the headquarters of the FIFA which controls soccer throughout the entire world. FIFA's address: 11 Hitzigweg, Zurich, Switzerland.

SID GRANT, who compiled this, the first comprehensive book on soccer in all Australian States, has followed the game for 50 years. He was born near Newcastle, NSW, and has worked for 36 years as a soccer writer for major Australian papers. He has been a State president, national selector, and since 1928 has served succeeding administrations as soccer's top historian.
